"I didn't have the nerve to come here this morning, so I went to get a couple of shots in me. The place I usually go to was closed and it took the me the better part of an hour to find another one. I got me two shots. I guess I did go to Mrs. Rosenberg's store and maybe chuck her under the chin."

THE JUDGE said: "You have told a straightforward story," and let him go.

So far as known, the judge did not ask him where he got his "two shots" or send a policeman to find out about it. That will grieve prohibitionists.

'NOT GUILTY' IS PLEA OF JERRY THE POLE'S SISTER IN GUN PLOT

The 19-year-old sister of the convicted slayer, "Jerry the Pole," otherwise known as Jerry Gedzium of Jamaica Plain, was held in $8,000 bail today for the Grand Jury on the charge of slipping an automatic pistol into a roasted chicken to effect her brother's escape from the electric chair.

Genevieve Gedzium's clever ruse, which police believe originated with a gang that may have aided Jerry in the $15,000 Ward Baking Company holdup, was revealed exclusively yesterday in the Boston Evening American.

On the verge of tears the girl was led into East Cambridge District Court by a matron to face Judge Arthur P. Stone.

All eyes in the courtroom turned on her and at first she bowed her

$40,000,000 RUBBER POOL BOOSTS PRICE

New York, Dec. 3 (I.N.S.).—Crude rubber prices jumped 50 to 190 points in the New York markets today, in response to the announcement that banking and tire companies had organized a $40,000,000 pool to stabilize rubber prices.

The January position advanced 190 points to 38.80, up nearly 2 cents a pound.

The pool, composed of a score of the largest and most powerful automobile manufacturers and rubber manufacturers of the United States, aims to break the monopolistic grip of England on the world's supply price of raw rubber.

The plan was attributed to Charles B. Seger, president of the United States Rubber Company. Seger intimated that the pool funds would be utilized for purchases of huge stocks of crude rubber at times when the market is favorable.

Other large manufacturers associated with the United States Rubber Company in the pol wer the General Rubber Company, B. F Goodrich, Goodyear, Firestone and Fisk Rubber companies, General Motors, Studebaker, Willys-Overland, Dodge, Packard, and other automobile manufacturers.

NEWLYWEDS RESCUED AT FIRE IN BRAINTREE

Six persons, among them a bride and groom, were rescued by firemen today when fire destroyed a two and one half story house at No. 38 River street, Braintree. The loss was estimated to be $35,000.

The rescued are, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred De Young, newlyweds, who lived on the second floor; Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Lewis, their daughter, Louise, ten, and son, Albert, eleven, occupants of the first floor.

Upon arrival at the scene of the fire, Chief Fred Tenney sounded a general alarm. Flames had enveloped the stairways leading to the street, trapping the two families. Ladders were placed against the building. Firemen entered and carried through smoke-filled rooms to safety the panic-stricken occupants.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis were nearly overcome by smoke. With the others, they were taken in their night clothes to a nearby home, where they were given warmth and new clothing.

The blaze started in the kitchen on the first floor. The house was destroyed. Only a few articles of furniture were saved.

SIMPSON FLAYS WIDOW AS 'CRUEL SLAYER'; JURY GETS HALL CASE TODAY

Somerville, N. J., Dec. 3.—Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall was referred to as "a cold-blooded murderess" by Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson in his impassioned summation to the jury in the Hall-Mills case today.

He declared she and her brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens, killed the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills during a row in DeRussey's Lane on the night of September 14, 1922.

"That fatal night Mrs. Hall may have had no idea of murder," said Simpson. "She simply was going to the lane to confront them with the love they had exchanged and say, 'My dear, this has to stop.'

"But there was a row. I don't know what happened exactly. Perhaps it was done with Hall's revolver. And her brothers were there with her.

"I don't say this woman on trial committed the murder herself, but she was there."

Mrs. Hall, attired in black and very pale, sat between her two brothers and regarded the prosecutor coldly as he made this dramatic declaration in front of the jury box.

The prosecutor charged the defendants "bought their way out" four years ago and warned the jury against a "speedy verdict" in deciding the case once it reached its hands.

It was expected that the jury would get the case early this afternoon. Indications were that the verdict would be reached before night.

Betting was ten to one that all defendants in the case would be acquitted.

Simpson concluded his first argu-

LEARY CASTS SURGERY DOUBT IN WALSH TRIAL

It is impossible to determine if Edith Louise Greene died of illegal surgery, Dr. Timothy Leary, Medical Examiner, testified under cross-examination today in Superior Court where three defendants are on trial in connection with her tragic demise.

The defendants are Dr. Thomas C. Walsh, his wife, Mrs. Marion Walsh and James V. Ford, fiance of Edith Greene, State ward, and the State alleges the girl died of illegal surgery performed by Dr. Walsh, in connection with which it alleges, Mrs. Walsh and Ford were conspirators.

Recalled to the stand today, Dr. Leary testified in direct examination that, in his opinion, the immediate cause of death was acute blood-poisoning.

In answer to a question by District Attorney O'Brien, the medical examiner said that the condition he

PAYROLL THUG GANG HUNTED IN PLOT TO FREE 'JERRY THE POLE'

GIRL, 19, IS HELD BY COURT

head and seemed about to break down. But fighting back the tears and biting her lip to keep up a bold front, she threw her head high and faced the court.

WAIVES HEARING.

"Not guilty," she said in a low but firm voice.

She had no lawyer and she waived her right to a hearing in the district court. Police Captain Patrick Hurley of Cambridge then urged that bail of $25,000 be fixed.

"She has no police record and she is a very young alleged offender," replied Judge Stone. "I fix bail at $5,000."

With that, the girl who is alleged to have chanced a ten-year prison sentence to "go through" for her doomed brother, was led away to jail again with little hope of getting free on bail.

According to the State detectives assisting District Attorney Bushnell of Middlesex County on the case, Genevieve Gedzium exonerated her mother in a fresh statement today. The mother was suspected of cooking the chicken into which the gun was slipped before it was taken to the jail, destined for "Jerry the Pole's" dinner.

"My mother didn't know anything about the chicken, and I cooked it," she is said to have stated to the authorities.

MOTHER IS FOUND.

Mrs. Nellie Gedzium, the mother who tried vainly to establish an alibi for her son at his recent trial, was found today by the Boston Evening American in her Jamaica Plain home in Sylvia street. She denied knowledge of the rescue plot and re-asserted her son's innocence over and over again.

Police hope to run down several suspects who are believed to have plotted the slayer's rescue.

UNKNOWN TO JERRY.

Jerry Gedzium, transferred from East Cambridge Jail to State Prison because of the attempt to give him a chance to shoot his way to freedom, was placed in the Cherry Hill section, where are confined such prisoners as Jesse Pomeroy, veteran "lifer"; the carbarn slayers, and Celestino Madeiros, condemned murderer. He was not put to work.

He has not been told of the collapse of the rescue plan and on his way to his new abode he nonchalantly remarked to his guards: "I expect a package from home so have it brought over to me, won't you."

Sheriff John R. Fairbairn of Middlesex County said today that he learned in advance of a conspiracy to effect Gedzium's escape. He said that a week ago other inmates of the East Cambridge Jail came to him and informed him and therefore the close watch was begun that resulted in the detection of the pistol-stuffed chicken.

The humorous sideplay to the dramatic attempt at rescue—the efforts of Assistant District Attorney Bushnell to get possession of the chicken, which Sheriff Fairbairn refused to relinquish without court order—was settled by Judge Burns in Superior Court.

A John Doe warrant was asked by Bushnell to force the sheriff to produce the bird and this was issued by Judge Burns. Sheriff Fairbairn promptly appeared, followed by Deputy A'vah Baker and Officer Albert Belcher with the chicken, the pistol, a jar of cranberry sauce, several sandwiches and a bottle of coffee.

Burns ordered everything given to State Detective Edward O'Neil, but before he could get the articles O'Neil was forced to sign a paper acknowledging receipt of "Jerry the Pole's" gone-astray chicken dinner.

found in the spleen was consistent with that resulting from illegal surgery.

"Did you visit Dr. Walsh's office in company with Captain Driscoll of the East Dedham street station on July 16?" O'Brien asked. Dr. Leary said he did.

Q.—Did you find anything there? A.—Yes.

The district attorney carried a bag in front of the medical examiner, who took out a number of instruments and arranged them. Asked for their names, he named eight and explained that they were used in surgery of the sort charged.

GRILLED BY DEFENSE.

Under cross-examination by John P. Feeney, counsel for Dr. and Mrs Walsh, the medical examiner admitted the instruments were of the standard type used by most physicians and admitted also that they came in standard lots of six or a dozen, of various sizes.

Q.—As to the culture (taken from Edith Greene's spleen in the City Hospital laboratory) didn't you depend on the report of assistants? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you yourself view the culture of the spleen? A.—Yes.

Q.—But with the naked eye? A.—Yes.

Q.—Isn't it a fact that if any of the culture known as streptococci had entered the spleen after death it would be almost impossible to determin whether death was due to illegal surgery? A.—Yes.

DOUBT ON SURGERY.

Q.—Wouldn't the chances be six to ten against a positive diagnosis? A.—Yes.

Q.—Could you say with certainty that illegal surgery had been performed with an instrument? A.—No.

Q.—Now, doctor, could you say with certainty that illegal surgery had been performed? A.—No.

A detailed and technical explanation of the workings of the Boston City Hospital laboratories was given by Marion Lamb, bacteriologist, when she resumed the stand in the thronged courtroom.

Miss Lamb testified it was she who isolated peritonitis bacteria in tests made upon Edith Greene's spleen.

Under cross-examination by John P. Feeney, counsel for Dr. and Mrs. Walsh, however, she admitted sometimes errors crept into the work, despite all precautions.

She admitted also that plates on which smears are made and inspected as part of the tests are kept in a refrigerator and are not sterilied before being used in a new case.

DEFENSE PLANS BATTLE.

Miss Lamb admitted, too, that eight persons have access to the test tubes used in experiments, but she declared that if anything did happen to the tubes, it would happen outside the laboratory when the result would be virtually negative

Dr. Cornelius F. Rhodes told of receiving the spleen and giving it to Dr. Charles P. Lucas, who made tests and then turned it over to Miss Lamb for the bacteriological work.

Shaw Pleased That Champ Tunney Is to Visit Him

London, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—George Bernard Shaw, who once wrote a novel with a prize-fighter for its hero and then broke into the sport pages by predicting that Georges Carpentier would beat Jack Dempsey in the "battle of the century," is flattered to hear that Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion, is going to visit him.

"It is flattering to hear that the world's champion heavyweight boxer is coming expressly to Europe to pay me a visit," said Mr. Shaw today. "I know nothing of Tunney's visit, but if he cares to write me he is always at liberty to do so."

The champion has been quoted as claiming that Shaw's characters "should be more heroic to reach the customers."

NORTHCLIFFE CARED LITTLE FOR MONEY

London, Dec. 3 (Universal).—That Lord Northcliffe never regarded his newspapers primarily as money making concerns was disclosed at proceedings in Chancery Court in which Louise Owen, twenty years his confidential secretary and one of the beneficiaries under his will, sought to set aside the agreement for the sale of the Daily Mail shares at $20.

Miss Owen, who inherits a one-fiftieth part of the residue of the Northcliffe estate, alleges this was below the actual value of the shares purchased by Lord Rothermere, apparently basing her case on the fact that the same shares were quoted on the stock exchange at nearly $35, even after the issuance of bonus stock.

"Lord Northcliffe told me he did not regard the Daily Mail as a commercial undertaking and that he was not much concerned about money."

It begins to be apparent that the result of the suit will be a verdict against Miss Owen, due to the fact that Lord Rothermere, after his purchase, by a stroke of financial genius, hoisted the market value to

$100,000,000 IN TOYS FOR CHRISTMAS

New York, Dec. 3 (Universal)—Santa Claus' bag of toys is "bigger and better" than ever this year, bigger than it has been since 1922.

The wholesale value of things that will surprise American kiddies this coming Christmas morning is fully $100,000,000, according to Fletcher B. Dodge, secretary of the toy manufacturers of the U. S. A., who are meeting here to plan for next year.

"This indicates that the toy industry in America is in a good condition," said Dodge. "Eighty per cent. of the toys sold in this country are produced in American work shops.

"Take the item of doll carriages. Last year the wholesale value of domestic ones was $3,000,000. Children's express and coaster wagons amounted to about $4,000,000, wholesale, in 1925. And $2,000,000 worth of toy automobiles were manufactured."

Word comes from metropolitan stores that not since the "billion dollar silk shirt" Christmas of 1919 which ended the post-war orgy of spending, has there been the prospect of so many dollars invested in Yuletide gifts.

Never before has there been such a glittering and assorted showing of holiday goods, according to merchants. The finest goods in the world are exhibited in the stores.

One sees exquisite French needle work so fine that he wonders how the workers' eyes lasted to complete the pieces. There are magnificent stamped leather articles from Italy; perfumes that range from $3 to $300 a bottle; Vienn-se purses of reptile skins; antiques worth a fortune and coming from every country in the world; and foreign foods of the rarest delicacy.

WIFE'S PARTY KEPT CHAPLIN FROM SLEEP

(Copyright, 1926, by Universal Service.)

Los Angeles, Dec. 3.—"Lita, get those people out of this house."

That request made early Tuesday morning by Charlie Chaplin, prefaced the argument that led to the open break between the king of cinema comedians and his wife.

Chaplin personally detailed the events that preceded the denouement.

The scene was the Chaplin home in Beverly Hills. The time was "three o'clock in the morning."

The organ, pride of Chaplin's heart, was being played by one of the guests. A second visitor was playing the piano. The phonograph was scraping away at another record.

Mrs. Chaplin had arrived home with a few friends, guests earlier in the evening at a dinner given at the Los Angeles Biltmore Hotel.

The dinner had been given in honor of Baron and Baroness Mille De Precourt, boat acquaintances Mrs. Chaplin had made recently upon her return voyage from the Hawaiian Islands.

At the Biltmore there had been nineteen guests. Seven, or perhaps nine of them, accompanied her home.

"They were making so much noise," Charlie said, "That I could not sleep."

"I had been busy—trying to concentrate upon my work. Lita had asked me if she could give a party and I had agreed but I had not been advised of the details.

WISH TO CURB 'FOREIGN' HELD CONCERNS

A warning to the Legislature that Massachusetts gas and electric companies, in sound financial condition as a result of wise state requirements, present an attractive temptation for acquiring by outsiders, is sounded by the Public Utilities Commission.

Outside interests, the commission points out, accustomed to regulations wherein the basis of rate fixing "is under the so-called United States Supreme Court rule of a fair return upon the productive value of the property, less depreciation, see an opportunity by acquiring the control of our domestic corporations to obtain a larger income therefrom than the companies now obtain."

Among steps which should be taken to block such attempts, the commission urges that the law, which provides that whenever a majority of the stock of a domestic corporation becomes owned or controlled by a foreign corporation and such foreign corporation issues stock, bonds or other evidences of indebtedness based upon or secured by the property, franchise, or stock of such domestic company, the Attorney-General may petition the Supreme Court for a dissolution of the domestic corporation, be amended so that the acquiring of control or ownership whether stocks are issued or not, would constitute ample ground for dissolution.

SEEK ROXBURY BROTHERS IN MURDER

Two Roxbury brothers were being hunted today in connection with the slaying of James Monagle, Medford storekeeper, as State Detective Edward O'Neil and Sergeant Buffum of the Medford police left for Rangeley, Me., to try to bring back to Boston Herbert Gleason, accused of participation in the holdup and murder.

One of the brothers is said to be the mysterious "Frank," who, police declare, is the owner of the revolver with which Monagle was killed. Both are believed to have been in the vicinity of the hold-up, even if not actually on the scene, and this theory places three men instead of two in the hold-up plot.

Information leading to the identity of "Frank," who had previously been partially traced through the pistol clew, was received from Maine following the arrest there of Gleason at his mother's home in Rangeley.

State Detectives O'Neil and Sherlock, together with men assigned by Chief John F. Welch of the Medford police, were well on the road toward establishing the pistol owner's identity through a Boston sporting goods house and a hardware store when this information aided them materially.

Gleason was arrested by members of the Maine State Constabulary at Rangeley, Me., sleeping at the home of his mother, a few hours after he reached there from Boston.

He accompanied police to the county jail at Augusta, protesting his innocence and declared a willingness to waive extradition and return to this city

Jack Crabtree Breaks Lotta Estate Claim

Jack Crabtree, brother of Lotta Crabtree, who left an estate of several million dollars, spoke of his baby to Henry Reynolds and intimated that his famous sister knew of the child's existence, according to testimony from Reynolds, a California engineer, in Suffolk Probate Court today.

The engineer's testimony was read from a deposition made by him last year and offered in support of the claim of Mrs. Carlotta Cockburn of San Gabriel, Cal., who claims that she is Jack Crabtree's daughter and therefore entitled to share in the estate of his sister, the famous Boston actress.

Reynolds, in the deposition read by Attorney James H. Hoy, said he drank frequently with Crabtree in the Oriental Saloon in Tombstone, Ariz., and met both Crabtree and his wife in that town and also in San Francisco.

HE HAD MET LATER.

He said he knew Lotta Crabtree, having seen her act in a San Francisco theatre and added that he and Jack Crabtree often talked about the stage-star. He could not describe Lotta herself and said he may have her mixed in his remembrance with Alice Harrison, another actress.

"One day I asked Jack what Lotta thought about his being married and having the child, and he said, 'Oh, she thought it was all right,'" testified Reynolds.

Reynolds' testimony was:

Q.—Did you know Lotta Crabtree? A.—Yes, in San Francisco, when she was playing in one of the theatres.

Q.—Did you know her mother? A.—Yes. I knew her mother, Mary. I also knew Jack when he was called Doc.

Q.—When did you meet Jack? A.—In the early days in San Francisco.

Q.—Did you talk to him about going to Tombstone, Ariz.? A.—Yes, we talked about it in front of the box office of a theatre.

Q.—When was that? A.—Oh, a long way back, in 1875, to the best of my memory.

Q.—When did you go to Arizona? A.—In the last of 1875 or the first of '80.

vk. [illegible]

Q.—Did you meet Jack Crabtree in Tombstone? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where did you go? A.—To the Oriental Saloon where we both had drinks. He treated and I treated. We treated in those days, you know.

TOLD OF MARRIAGE.

Q.—Did he say he was married? A.—Yes. He took me a block down the road to a place called the San Jose House where he was living.

Q.—Did he introduce you to a woman as his wife? A.—Yes. She said she remembered me in San Francisco. She said, "Oh, yes, I remember Dick in San Francisco."

Q.—What did she look like? A.—She was tall and thin and I think she was dark with brown hair. Jack was taller than I was. He wore a gray suit, he always wore a gray suit. He was a nice dresser, always was. There was something the matter with his eye, I forget which one, but it was kind of red and looked as if a baseball bat hit it.

Q.—What did you two talk about? A.—About his sister, Lotta.

Q.—What did you talk about concerning the baby? A.—I think I asked him what his sister thought of his marriage. He said, "Oh, all right."

Q.—Who was Lotta Crabtree? A.—An actress.

Q.—Describe her. A.—I can't describe her, but I guess I saw her in San Francisco in the theatres, you know.

Q.—Well, what did she look like? A.—She was a pretty good-looking actress, she used to make up, you know. But maybe I've got her mixed with Alice Harrison.

TOTILA'S CREW RESCUED

St. Pierre, Miq., Dec. 3 (A.P.)—All members of the crew of the German steamer Totila were saved when the vessel was wrecked on the south coast of Langlade.

Tugs which put out from here brought back one sailor whose face was burned while setting off distress signals. The others remained at Langlade.

The captain of the Totila, the [illegible] crew reported, refused to abandon his ship and has wired for assistance to refloat the steamer, which was in ballast, bound for Montreal.

Sydney, N. S., Dec. 3 (A.P.)—A large unidentified steamer went ashore at Westmount in Sydney harbor today during a driving northeast blizzard.

The vessel is believed to be either the Garland or the Kelspool, both colliers.

Although the storm was increasing in violence when the ship grounded it was not believed the crew on the stranded vessel was in any danger.

The vessel is thought to have broken away from her anchorage mooring and driven on the western shore of the harbor.

DEMAND CONGRESS ACT TO AID CUSTOMS SERVICE

"Congressional neglect of the Customs Service" was today scored by the Boston branch of the National Customs Service Association in annual meeting at the Customs House. The charges were made in framing a vote of thanks to the press for publishing facts and editorials regarding the neglect.

Joseph H. [illegible] was re-elected president of the local branch. The annual report detailed the efforts of the organization to bring conditions to the attention of Congress, chambers of commerce and business men's associations.

Hall Counsel Picks Counter Suspects for Each Accused

Somerville, N. J., Dec. 3—Drab "Jimmy" Mills is the selection of Robert H. McCarter, chief Hall-Mills defense counsel, as the person who may have shot the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills four years ago.

But his colleague, Senator Case, centered on "The Pig Woman" and Raymond Schneider as the possible slayers.

At any rate, the defense has offered for the jurors' consideration a slayer suspect for each one of the trio, Mrs. Eleanor Stevens Hall and her brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, on trial accused of the murder.

HARBOR ROAD IS REJECTED

The dream road of motorists from Boston to Pemberton, across Boston Harbor via Peddock's Island, is only a dream after all.

The State Department of Public Works turned down the plan for the Summer route to the beach on the ground that it would seriously interfere with harbor traffic and was not worth the tremendous cost.

The proposed road, almost seven miles long, the report of the State Department of Public Works said, would necessitate a cost of between [illegible] and $20,000,000 under the three plans up for consideration. Pollution of the waters in the basin on the Quincy Bay side, it was said, and other disadvantages would be caused by the construction of the road.

CHAPLIN WAS KEPT AWAKE

'come here. Get those people out of this house.'

"They could hear me," Charlie said, referring to the guests.

"They (meaning the guests) went."

But the argument between Charlie and his wife, the former Lita Grey, continued for several hours, according to the stories told by both of them.

It was but one of several that have occurred the past few months, they said.

"I have never ill-treated my wife," Charlie declared. "I have done everything I could to make my home a happy one, but it seems impossible."

Some time before noon Tuesday, Mrs. Chaplin packed her trunks, took the two babies and went to the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Curry, who reside about a mile from Chaplin's home. Her mother, Mrs. Lillian Spicer, accompanied her. The trunks, however, were still at the Chaplin home today.

Charlie is said to be holding them pending further developments.

One development occurred.

It was a legal notice, formal and brief, sent to newspapers from the office of Chaplin's attorney, Lloyd Wright, setting forth that the motion picture star would be no longer responsible for his wife's debts. She had left him, the notice declared.

This action had been prompted, an official of the Chaplin Film Company declared, "by an avalanche of bills," that had arrived at the studio. They represented, according to the official, various articles of wearing apparel purchased in Hollywood.

Mrs. Chaplin declared that she did not know what action she would take, if any, to gain possession of her trunks.

She was in consultation with her attorney during the afternoon, but, according to his statement and hers, no definite action was decided upon.

SOVIET SEIZES ARCTIC ISLE

Moscow, Dec. 3 (I.N.S.).—The Soviet polar expedition, aboard the ship Stavropol, has raised the Soviet flag on Herald Island, near Alaska, and Soviet sovereignty has been affirmed over the island, the Foreign Office announced today.

The Foreign Office announces a previous expedition had removed all foreign flags from the island and that the action of the present expedition excludes possibility of future attempts by the United States or Great Britain to claim the island.

RESERVATIONS SEEN AS RUINING MARRIAGE

If successfully wedded you would be, marriage without reservations.

Such, dear friends, is the advice of Lucy J. Franklin, dean of women at Boston University.

And one of the reservations she mentions that is likely to lead to divorce court is that delightful saying of the modern young woman on the eve of her marriage:

"If my marriage is not a success, it won't be so bad because I can always go back to my work."

This saying has done more to make marriages unsuccessful than anything else, said Dean Franklin.

Dean Franklin was speaking before the Society of Harvard Dames at Phillips Brooks House, and another cause she assigned for unsuccessful marriages was "petting" before wedlock.

DORCHESTER MAN HELD FOR ATTACK ON GIRL

50 SUMMONED IN FEDERAL POOL PROBE

A Federal probe of the "Hudson Pool," outgrowth of the more famous Albany Pool, that has already reached from this city into New York State, and may enter more eastern States, is underway.

Fifty witnesses, most of them from Springfield and other western Massachusetts cities, Troy, N. Y. and Kingston, N. Y., are to appear before the Federal Grand Jury here in connection with the case against the pool.

Federal operatives conducting the investigation which resulted from the conviction of Joseph T. Stephan Troy bank teller, for embezzlement are now centering on Massachusetts. The investigation, agents said, will be far more searching than the probe made of the Albany pool, a few months ago.

The arrest of Daniel Jordan, alleged agent of the pool, in Springfield, by Lieutenant Detective George B. Bicknell, led to the inquiry being brought before the Federal court. Jordan testified at a secret hearing by the Federal Grand Jury when the workings of the pool were discussed.

Lieutenant Bicknell, Daniel Jordan, Chief Joseph Demers of West Springfield Detective Thomas Denton of the Boston & Albany Railroad police Detective Sergeants Mahoney and Dolan of the Troy, N. Y., department have already been summoned to appear before the Federal Grand Jury.

Others summoned include William Jordan and Harold McMasters, of Springfield, and John W. Condon. Joseph M. Wood and Mrs Edna M. Pomeroy of West Springfield.

PREDICTS SPAN OF LIFE WILL BE LENGTHENED

London, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, has left off his task of keeping tab on the empire's cash long enough to peer into the future for the Institute of Actuaries. In the year 1970 he visualizes a lot more elderly people than at present. The Chancellor thinks people will be living much longer when that time comes.

In forty years or so, in the opinion of Mr. Churchill, there will be but a small increase in the total population. But there will come a marked increase in aged persons of both sexes, particularly women after middle age. Science and civilization, the Chancellor thinks, will bring with them compensatory resources. Science will arm those who have the greatest charity with the greatest power.

COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Samuel H. Wolcotts Give Dance to Daughter Tonight

A VERY LARGE AND SMART BALL serves this evening to introduce Miss Edith Wolcott, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Huntington Wolcott, and granddaughter of that grande dame of the ultra set, the well beloved and honored Mrs. Roger Wolcott. The whole of Boston's Mayfair will be in attendance. Smart dinners without number precede the ball, for "everyone" in the circle of Upper Tendom is either entertaining thus or being entertained. The Wolcott ball is a stupendous affair, taking on assembly-like proportions, for the ball the guests' list runs up into four figures. It's one of those occasions lavishly staged and superlative from every viewpoint. Quite fittingly, the dinner before the ball Mrs. Amor Hollingsworth is giving for Miss Wolcott is very large. Mrs. Hollingsworth is hostess for a hundred and twenty-five guests at the Chilton Club.

OTHER HOSTESSES ARE MRS. RICHARD D. SEARS, Mrs Herbert Jaques, Mrs. Horatio Hathaway and Mrs. Archibald Blanchard, and many more far too numerous to mention.

ATTEND SERVICE BALL

Mrs. Walter Pratt (left) and Mrs. Malvern Hill Barnum were in attendance at the brilliant army and navy dance at Hotel Copley-Plaza last night. Distinction of rank were all forgotten in the merrymaking, high navy officers and generals mingling with the rank and file

ONLOOKER

Mrs. Horace Morison was one of a gay box party which appreciatively looked on at the dazzling display of uniforms and full dress as debs and younger officers danced.

GUESTS AT BALL

Mrs. Nathaniel F. Ayer and Miss Suzanna Dabney (at right) were interested guests at the unusual get-together service meeting. The event was brilliant in the extreme, the blue and white uniforms of the Cadets (now the 101st Engineers) mingling in kaleidoscopic fashion with the smart khaki garments of the marines

(Photographs posed especially for Boston Evening American staff photographer)

And of the young girls coming from out of town there are Miss Elizabeth Boles of Philadelphia, Miss Cynthia Cheney of Manchester, t., and Miss Almira Rockefeller and Miss Nancy Sullivan. Miss Sullivan is really a Bostonian, but she and her parents, the J. Amory Sullivans, have lived much abroad in the past few years; Italy, I believe, in a pretty villa at Asolo.

William G. Saltonstall and James Lawrence, Jr., head a corps of ushers, culled from the upper stratas and including any number of relatives of the bud. Belonging to the Wolcott and Stevenson families, she's kin with practically all of Boston's aristocracy, either on the paternal or maternal sides.

THE BIG SERVICE BALL of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps was a huge success. Admirals rubbed elbows in the dancing throng with sailor boys in navy blue; generals and colonels hobnobbed with enlisted men smartly uniformed in well-tailored khaki. Each with his lady faire danced in the jolly throng that completely filled the handsomely flag-draped ballroom of the Copley-Plaza. It was a melange of every rank and every service branch.

Marines in forest green and other Devil Dogs in the dress blue and scarlet of the famous corps. First Corps Cadet members wore their light blue and white, their handsome dress array.

Beribboned generals and gold-braided admirals were of no more importance nor decorated the scene more brightly than the lowly enlisted man. And forgotten was all privilege of rank.

MRS. CHARLES PELHAM GREENOUGH, 2d, in rose and gold net, was early on the scene to take a place in the receiving line. Mrs. Norman W. Cabot, in a lovely lace frock of pastel rose; Mrs. Nathaniel Farwell Ayer, in black velvet and carrying a plumed fan of vivid green; Mrs. Robert Livermore, in black moire with gold, were also in the receiving line. Mrs. Alber Wthittier, wearing old blue, had a party at the ball. Mr. and Mrs. Horace Morison and Major and Mrs. Walter Merriam Pratt, General and Mrs. Malvern Hill Barnum and Miss Suzanna Dabney were in one group. Miss Dabney wore blue and silver brocade, Mrs. Morison a rose creation and Mrs. Pratt a confection in green and silver. Mrs. Barnum was in black velvet handsomely ornamented with brilliants.

OVER AT the Hotel Somerset bud festivities were afoot. Bright-eyed youth dined in state and then danced through to the morning in honor of Miss Helen Stuart Rust, bud daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Drummond Rust. It was a big [illegible] for a petite girl in white velvet and net.

IT HAD a bit of silver, of course, for what gown these days but carries the shimmer of metal? And also in the mode was the bouquet, formal in its pink and yellow rows and sash of colored ribbons.

Mrs. Rust's handsome costume was of black velvet and she carried white gardenias. The florist, astute gentleman, magically transformed the very handsome rose and gold ballroom into an unusual arrangement.

Feathery green only was used in decoration, and one large splash of color came from the flowers massed behind the bud and her mother.

TO DINE and then to dance is the prescribed way of the young set. The dinner before the dance was given at the Rust home in Commonwealth avenue, just across the way from the Somerset. J. Dudley Clark was head usher, and his corps included Volney Righter, Paul Rust, Jr., Nathaniel Saltonstall, Henry Parish, Douglas Robinson, Ward Ayres, Theodore G. Bremer, Jr., Alexander Cassatt, Nathaniel Hamlen, Samuel Hallowell.

A PARTIAL list only of the smart young men whose cognomens get into the social prints frequently as they usher at this and that affair. A half-dozen girl friends of Miss Rust were dinner and dance guests. Miss Temple Biddle, Miss Frances Hackscher, Miss Alice Leone Moats, Miss Frances Goodwin and Miss Jean Cochran, hailing from the Big City. And Miss Elizabeth Hill Smith, from Dayton, O.

WORLD'S BEST WOOL EXPERT IN BOSTON

The boss of the American wool market is in Boston. In fact he has been here for years in the person of James W. Kelley, a customs service examiner, on whose shoulders rests the decision as to what duty Uncle Sam shall collect on the wool that enters the country via the port of Boston.

Kelley, a veteran in both the wool and customs service, can tell by just handling a woolen sample what part of the world it came from and the breed of sheep from which it was shorn. He is familiar with 250 kinds of wool and his word carries such weight that it is seldom importers care to dispute his decisions.

Boston, the largest wool port of entry in the country, handles 250,000,000 pounds of wool a year, according to Kelley, and this during the past five years led to $150,000,000 travelling to the U. S Treasury as import taxes.

For all the millions in duties that Kelley handles his pay is rated practically the same as other veterans of the customs service. Uncle Sam turns over to the veteran wool handler a salary of $3,300 a year. The love of the service goes far toward holding Kelley in his present job for he admits that he has been offered positions at double his present salary in all parts of the country, so well known is he as an unbiased surveyor of wool.

Uncle Sam Collects Tax Man's Taxes as Tax Man Gets You!

Washington, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Who takes care of the tax collector's taxes while the tax collector is out collecting taxes? Uncle Sam.

Alexander Gregg, general counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau, made public a decision today declaring collectors of delinquent personal taxes, under the Ohio State revenue law, must pay a Federal levy on the compensation they receive for this work.

He held that they were not actually State officers, whose income generally is exempt from Federal taxation.

GENTILES AND JEWS PREACH TOLERANCE

Chicago, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—A Presbyterian minister, a Roman Catholic priest and two Jewish Rabbis broke bread together last night at the head of a banquet table to which each of 70 jews, prominent in the city's life, brought "my best christian friend."

"To you, my coreligionists," Rabbi Freehof said, "I say America needs all three of us," and Rev. Ralph Davis of the Hyde Park Presbyterian Church responded with a prediction that "one of these days we are going to quit thinking in the terms of medievalism."

"We are going to tolerate each other, because we profoundly respect each others convictions and inheritance," he said. "Not because we believe lightly in tolerance, but because we believe tremendously in essentials.

"Nor shalal I, who am proud to stand here in fellowship with you, dilute my convictions in order to be a good fellow with you for an hour," he said, remarking that a hundred years ago such a gathering would have been impossible anywhere in the world.

"I preach to you intolerance of intolerance, be it social, religious, industrial or racial," said the Rev. Father Joseph Reiner, S. J., dean of Loyola University.

"Most of all I preach intolerance of ignorance," he declared, in holding that "our tolerance of ignorance is the source of our intolerance of each other."

VASSAR HEAD IN FAVOR OF SCHOOL EXPERIMENTS

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 3 (A.P.)—Although declaring himself satisfied with the road education in America was traveled thus far, the present tendency to experiment with schools is not a matter to be frowned upon; Dr. Henry Noble McCracken, president of Vassar College, told the National Students Federation.

"This desire to experiment with education should not meet with disfavor since the whole history of education in the United States has been along experimental lines," he said. Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn of the University of Wisconsin said the greatest trouble with present schools are that faculties are too large.

SECOND DEGREE DEATH AGAINST VICTIM'S PAL

District Attorney O'Brien nol prossed so much of the indictment against Ralph Cacciaputi, 34, a laborer at Wilkinsonville, as charged first degree murder and the trial went ahead with second degree charge remaining.

Cacciaputi is accused of having stabbed Anthony Napolian, also a laborer, at work at the time in Chelsea, Aug. 7. The government said it would show the men roomed together and on the fatal night became involved in a quarrel over a card game. Judge Bishop is presiding at the trial.

COUNT BETHLEN WOUNDS COUNT ALMASY IN DUEL

Budapest, Hungary, Dec. 3 (I.N.S.).—A sabre duel was fought in a lonely wood near here today at sunrise between Count Andreas Bethlen, son of former Premier Bethlen, and Count Paul Almasy.

Both duellists fought savagely until Count Almasy received a wound in his hword hand.

The duel was the outcome of a brawl in a night club.

SEEKS DAUGHTER; FINDS CHILD HIT BY AUTO

Virginia Lowell, 5½ years old, of No. 6 Giles Park, Somerville, failed to go home from play when darkness came. Her mother, fearing that the child was lost, went to Somerville police headquarters to ask the police to search for the child.

The mother nearly fainted when informed that a child answering Virginia's description was in the Centre Street Hospital. She had been hit by an automobile driven by Edward Jacobson of No. 124 Colonial road, Brighton, at the junction of Bow street and Somerville avenue. The child is still unconscious and physicians said her condition is very serious.

KIDDIES GET 'SANTAS', BUT CHECKS ARE O. K.

Springfield, Dec. 3.—Those pretty pictures of Santa Claus on envelopes bearing Christmas checks proved too alluring for a number of youngsters and they followed a postman on his rounds, purloined the letters and tore the pictures off.

The children had no idea whatsoever of stealing the checks; in fact they rarely paused to investigate what the envelopes contained. But they collected a large number of pictures of the good Christmas Saint.

FALL IGNORED ADVICE ON OIL LEASE PLANS

Washington, Dec. 3.—Although serious doubt was raised from the beginning as to the legality of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve lease to the E. L. Doheny interests ex-Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall, on trial with the oil magnate for conspiracy to defraud the government, never sought a legal opinion on the lease, H. Foster Bain, formerly director of the Bureau of Mines, declared under cross-examination today.

At least two large companies, the Standard Oil of California and the Union Petroleum Company, directly questioned the legality of the proposal, Bain, a defense witness, said.

Fall did not even act upon the suggestion of E. C. Finney, assistant secretary of the Interior, to obtain "an informal opinion," Bain admitted.

Owen J. Roberts, special prosecutor, read to the jury several excerpts of Bain's testimony in the Los Angeles civil proceedings, in which the government won a decision annulling the Doheny contracts, and asserted that in his direct examination here the witness presented answers less specific and direct.

BEAUTY EASING PAIN STIRS UP 'MOB SCENE'

"They gave me soapy water to drink, rushed me into an ambulance, and put me to bed, and I wasn't sick at all."

So saying, Genevieve Mae Crocker, enchanting 19-year-old Dorchester blonde who lives at No. 6 Faulkner street, then executed a few intricate Charleston and Black-bottom steps to prove that she wasn't on the danger list.

It seems that Genevieve was accused of trying to end it all by drinking an iodine highball.

"I was in the women's retiring room of a nearby theatre applying iodine to a tooth when a woman suddenly grabbed me," she said. "The woman got a doctor and they gave me some soapy water."

"Before I really knew what it was all about a crowd gathered. I tried to protest, and made for the door. Then I was rushed into an ambulance. Of course I was glad to get away from the excitement and the stuff—the water—I had drunk, made me dizzy and sick."

At the Haymarket Relief Hospital I tried to tell everybody what I was really doing, but the suicide idea seemed to prevail, so I consented to go to bed."

Genevieve finally got up in the morning and went home, she said.

TODAY

States vote to remove the prohibition amendment.

BILLY SUNDAY says he will run for President as a dry if Governor Smith, a wet, is nominated by the Democrats, and the Republicans nominate anybody but an out-and-out prohibitionist.

One thing is certain, with Mr. Sunday in the White House, the United States would have four years without a dull moment.

SOMEONE SUGGESTS selective maternity, no woman allowed to have children unless willing to give up her entire time to them and "forgo society."

That is not a good idea, if what you want is good children with power. The famous Olympias didn't exactly "give up society" or devote her life to her maternal duties. And she had only one child. But that one was Alexander the Great.

NATURE and the mothers have done fairly well on this earth in the past, changing us from cannibals and cave dwellers to half-civilized beings.

THE LEYLAND LINE and the Atlantic Transport Line of commercial steamships, now owned by Americans, will soon, it is said, follow the White Star Line into British ownership.

You think sometimes, for a short period, that a king, emperor or dictator might be useful even in a republic.

When Peter the Great, barely out of his teens, found that Russia had no ships, he built some, that never could travel, in a lake, for practice and amusement. Then he worked as a mechanic in a Holland shipyard, according to the story. Everybody probably knew he was an Emperor. But he learned how to build a fleet, as he built St. Petersburg on a swampy, cold river, by will power.

WEALTH, "easy money," make this country. Its able men and its government give up too easily.

We prepared three airships to fly to Hawaii; two fell down, the third wouldn't go up. We prepared two more airships for a non-stop flight to Panama. Those non-stop airships promptly stopped.

We may not be "quitters," but we are something like the man that said: "I'm a game guy, but I know when I'M licked." We seem to be "licked" a good deal of the time.

THE UNITED STATES government recently exhibited in New York City the most powerful searchlight ever made. Its power equals that of 2,000,000,000 candles, eighty times as much light as all the lights on New York's Broadway.

The light is so powerful that a man forty miles away could read his newspaper by it. A fine light, but it does not compare with the sun, which is ninety-three million miles away, and so powerful we cannot look at it.

THE TWO BILLION candle searchlight is supposed to help us find enemy aircraft flying over our cities. What good would it do us to FIND them?

The government also employs "height-finders" to show how high up the enemy aircraft are flying, and "listening machines" that make it possible to hear approaching airplanes more than ten miles away.

All interesting, but not very useful if airplanes attack our cities. What is needed is AIRPLANES and these, unfortunately, are what the country has not got.

INN BURNS AT NORTHBORO

Northboro, Dec. 3.—Aid was summoned from Marlboro, Westboro and Shrewsbury before fire that destroyed the famous Northboro Inn, was checked here. Outside aid was summoned after the flames fanned by the heavy wind threatened to spread to homes near the hotel. The fire was confined to the hotel, a famous hostelry, of other days.

James Higgins, of the Westboro fire department, was cut about the head by flying glass. He was treated at the scene and resumed work with his company. The Northboro Inn was famous at one time to dancing parties because of its springing floor.

ANDREWS DROPS YACHT CASE

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 3 (A.P.)—Release from bond of the palatial steam yacht Laurentian and dropping of charges against its master were recommended by Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement, in a letter read in Federal Court during a hearing on a petition filed by Russell A. Alger, owner of the yacht, to release it from a bond of $150,000.

The Laurentian was seized last Summer by the Coast Guard after 724 quarts of whiskey had been found in a locker which was supposedly sealed and locked. She was under charter to C. K. G. Billings, wealthy sportsman, who was on board with a party of guests.

DREAM OF DAD LEADS TO BODY OF SLAIN GIRL

Prairie Du Chien, Wis., Dec. 3 (A.P.)—The sinister dream of Christ Olson that his daughter Clara was dead has become reality.

"I've seen Clara," the tobacco planter had dreamed long before the body of the pretty 22-year-old girl was found in a shallow grave on Battle Ridge, near Rising Sun, a quarter of a mile from the home of Erdman Olson, who has been charged with the slaying.

"I've seen her in a dream," Christ told neighbors. "I know she is dead. I saw her buried on her face on a hill near Rising Sun."

SWEARS OUT WARRANT.

That dream of tragedy and death which came true to the letter, fortifying his suspicion of his daughter's fate, led Christ Olson to swear out a murder warrant for young Olson "upon information and belief" several days ago, although there was then no direct evidence that the girl was dead.

That evidence was supplied when a searching party, combing the picturesque Kickapoo Valley, stumbled upon a barely filled grave, in which the missing girl was lying, face downward. The searchers gathered at the spot and in awed whispers told one another that Christ Olson's dream had come true.

Today the body lay in a morgue in a plain wooden coffin awaiting an autopsy by C. H. Bunting of Madison, State pathologist, and a coroner's inquest, to determine how death came to the girl, who was an expectant mother. A superficial examination revealed no bullet wound or bruise from a blow, with officials discussing a poison theory as a possibility.

SEARCH FOR BOY.

Meanwhile, search was pushed for the girl's 18-year-old sweetheart, Erdman, Gale College student, who disappeared September 27, seventeen days after Clara left her home in the evening "to get a breath of fresh air," and never returned.

Sheriff Sherwood of Crawford County is on his way to Dwight, Ill., today to interview a youth held there answering the description of Erdman. The suspect gave his name as Walter M. Christenson, 22, and his home as Porter, Minn., and maintained that he knew nothing of the case.

Crawfordsville, Ind., authorities are holding another suspect.

Clara's body was identified by the father, who fainted after he had pointed with an age-withered finger through the cracked clay to the black silk dress which Clara had bought just before her bridal garment for her marriage with Erdman.

Erdman is a son of Albert Olson, unrelated to Christ. He left college a day after Christ had visited him and demanded the return of his daughter.

Reward of $800 has been posted for word of the youth's whereabouts and his description has been broadcast to police. Chicago police were searching for the youth, spurred by a report he had been seen in a restaurant.

Authorities believe that violence or poison would be found as the cause of the girl's death.

A small roadster, in which Olson and the girl went to many dances during their year's acquaintance was held here by the sheriff, whose attention was attracted to a dark brown spot which he may have analyzed.

It was learned today that young Erdman was exonerated several years ago of the death of a young boy with whom he was playing "Wild West." He shot the boy accidentally with a revolver.

NATIONAL SHAWMUT INSTALLS CHRONOMETER

The National Shawmut Bank of Boston will install in the officers' end of its main banking lobby, fronting Water street, a chronometer, the accuracy of which will be almost beyond question. Not only has the instrument wonderful time qualities, but its daily rate will be checked from the Naval Observatory in Washington.

In installing the chronometer the bank asserts that it is the first Boston institution of its kind to put in such an instrument. "The World War," it says, "has made people more sensitive than before to the value of promptness. The increased activity of modern business has intensified this tendency."

"Most of us used to compare our watches occasionally with a clock in a jeweler's window," says R. E. Chambers, vice-president of the bank. "Some of us still do, but most of us are anxious to have the exact time at all times of the day."

LIBERALS WIN CONTROL OF DANISH PARLIAMENT

Copenhagen, Dec. 3 (A.P.)—As an outcome of the elections to the Folketing, or Lower House of Parliament, the Conservatives won 30 seats, a gain of two over the 1924 elections, and the Liberals 46, also a gain of two. The Socialists took 53, a loss of two, and the radicals 16, also a loss of two. The Liberals and Conservatives having obtained 76 seats as against 69 for the Socialists and Radicals, will form the next government under leadership of Madsen Nydgal, Minister of Agriculture in the last Liberal administration.

FIRE DESTROYS DINER ON CRACK SPECIAL

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 3.—The dining car of the Knickerbocker Special one of the New York Central Railroad's fast Eastbound trains, was destroyed by fire at Wende, west of Batavia, it was learned, when the train reached here two hours late.

Unsuccessful efforts were made to extinguish the fire while the train was in motion, and finally a porter pulled the emergency cord and stopped it near the Wende station. The car was hurriedly detached, but fire apparatus reached it too late to save the contents, it was reported.

QUESTIONS ON CAKE MAKING ANSWERED

By MARTHA LEE.

Very early in life I learned that the correct answere to Question No. 5 in the Martha Lee Home .. kers Contest.

The question was: "Why should care be used not to slam the oven door when baking cake?

The answer is: "So the cake won't fall."

I can remember so well my high school cooking teacher explaining how a sudden jar would cause the breakage of the delicate air cells which had been so carefully beaten into the batter.

The answer to Question No. 6: "Why should raisins be floured or buttered before adding to cake batter?" is, "to prevent them settling to the bottom."

Have you never seen an otherwise delicious cake perfectly ruined by a heavy, soggy layer of fruit lying at the bottom instead of distributed through the loaf?"

I am very certain that all of you sent corerct answers to all the questions so far. Watch tomorrow for the answers to Questions Nos 7 and 8 which are equally easy.

ACTORS ENTERTAIN AT NEW ELKS HOTEL

Artists from the theatres in Greater Boston were guests of the Boston Lodge of Elks at the new Elks Hotel and with Corse Payton and Frank Hollis, old-time actors, as masters of ceremonies, a two-hour show was put on.

The early part of the evening was devoted to dancing in the ball room, with an organ concert by Del Castillo. The 11 o'clock toast was given by Joseph N. Shafer, and at the conclusion of the vaudeville show refreshments were served.

INVENTORY IN FORD PLANTS

Detroit, Dec. 3.—A let down in production at the mammoth Ford plants here to enable clerks to balance stocks has led to a partial shut down of the factory. The shutdown for a week was revealed when Ford Company officials made public a 28-word statement announcing the plans.

Reports that the shutdown was so that changes could be made in the plants for the production of a new middle-priced car were denied at the offices of the Ford Co.

HOLD TWO IN LEATHER THEFT

Haverhill, Dec. 3.—Harry F. Hinkson, foreman, employed by F. S. Chandler, leather dealer of No. 238 River street, must answer to a charge of larceny of $3,000 worth of cut soles from his employer, and George F. Hinkman was arrested in Haverhill and Keene in Lynn.

WE SELL WHAT WE ADVERTISE AS ADVERTISED

Colleen Moore to Star in Old Film Success

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—If you were an attendant at the motion picture theatres seven years ago you probably remember a gay little comedy called "Miss George Washington." Marguerite Clark played the lead, and even those folk who were openly and admittedly opposed to motion pictures used their most expensive adjectives in describing this picture.

Colleen Moore

Now it is to be resurrected. Not the film, but the three-act comedy drama written by Louis Allen Brown. Colleen Moore will have the role created by Marguerite Clark and the company will go to Washington to film scenes at the National Capitol.

Carey Wilson is now preparing the scenario for "Miss George Washington," which will be filmed before "Benny," originally named as Miss Moore's next picture.

FLORENCE VIDOR IS GOING BACK TO THE COAST. Through no fault of her own or Famous Players-Lasky, Miss Vidor is being rushed to California as soon as trains and her health will permit.

She has been sick ever since she came to New York. An affected arm which had to be lanced makes it impossible for her to appear in "Learning to Love."

This means that Frank Tuttle, who was to direct her, is out of a job. Not for long, however. Tuttle is one of Famous Players-Lasky's white haired boys, and it is not likely that they will let him remain idle for long.

He is being rushed into the Ed Wynn picture. What about Victor Heerman, who was originally slated? He probably will go back to the coast.

DIMITRI BUCHOWETZKI has advised me that he is going to make "Anna Karenina" as his next Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture. He says:

"It has been my wish for several years to direct this great story. It has a theme of deepness and beauty."

This is the novel by Tolstoy that Pola Negri expressed a wish to bring to the screen, and has always hoped that one day she could suffer with Anna.

JAMES ASHMORE CREELMAN IS A YOUNG SCENARIO WRITER. He has been doing very well for himself, too, as an adapter and author of these screen plays. But of course, deep down in his heart is a desire to one day direct. Most young writers have that hope.

Robert Kane knows young Creelman, furthermore, he knows his work and so he is giving him an opportunity to direct one of his own plays. Ben Lyon is slated for the leading role.

G. O. P. WANTS TO OUST FOUR

Washington, Dec. 3 (I.N.S.).—With President Coolidge taking the lead in smoothing out Republican differences in Congress, administration leaders today plotted a defensive war to protect their single-vote control over the Senate. Anticipating a Democratic drive to wrest control by the exclusion of Senators-Elect Frank L. Smith and William S. Vare, the Republicans drafted plans for initiating retaliatory contests against at least four incoming Democratic senators.

Among Democrats most likely to face these contests are Senators Edwin S. Broussard, of Louisiana, Alben W. Barkely, of Kentucky, and Ellison D. Smith, of South Carolina. An old contest may be revived at the same time against Senator Lawrence D. Tyson, of Tennessee, who was elected in 1924.

AIMEE'S TRUNK FINERY TRACED

Los Angeles, Dec. 3 (A.P.).—Ownership of the "little blue trunk" stuffed with woman's finery, seized in New York more than a month ago and said by District Attorney Keyes to belong to Aimee Semple McPherson and her fugitive radio operator, Kenneth G. Ormiston, has definitely been traced to Ormiston, the Times said today.

The trunk was identified as one sold to Ormiston under the name of "H. C. Cornell" here last May, a short time before the evangelist disappeared at Ocean Park Beach. Investigators traced the trunk to Jacksonville, Fla., and then to New York. It contained 67 articles of women's apparel which Keyes contends belong to the evangelist.

Keyes says he intends to offer the clothing to support the State charge that Ormiston and Mrs. McPherson were at Carmel, Cal.

[illegible] with [illegible] Parker pre[illegible] very [illegible] ing [illegible]

There was a tensely dramatic moment in the crowded courtroom when Simpson said:

Hall a "Hypocrite"

"Mrs. Hall was jealous of Mrs. Mills [illegible] over the telephone and heard Mrs. Mills [illegible] make an appointment with her husband.

"Mrs. Mills was a fine looking woman. Some people say she was an evil woman. I don't believe that. An evil woman does not wear cheap cotton stockings.

"Mrs. Hall was [illegible] Mrs. Mills [illegible] said, 'Nonsense. [illegible]'

"Mrs. Hall loved her minister husband. It was no commercial marriage between them. Perhaps he was a hypocrite, but Mrs. Hall wouldn't swear to it when asked."

Assailing Mrs. Hall's "private investigation" of the murders Simpson exclaimed:

"Why didn't she offer a reward for the slayer of her husband? Because she knew [illegible]."

He added that Mrs. Hall [illegible] even have hon[illegible] her husband—the man she [illegible]. His body was sent to the undertaker's, not taken to the Hall home. She let a half-dozen mutes carry the man she loved to the grave."

Prosecutor Simpson began his [illegible]ing address by praising the jurymen he had accused of "sleeping on the job" and whose alleged "prejudice" [illegible] in which he fai[illegible].

"The whole State of New Jersey owes you a debt of gratitude for listening over such a long period to the evidence in this case," declared Simpson.

"This murder happened four years ago and [illegible] there was a[illegible] ever hear of a[illegible] d[illegible] for four years.

"I want to ask [illegible] civilized world has a case like this happened? I don't [illegible] one murder. I mean [illegible] were grounds for an indictment [illegible] none was returned.

"Gentlemen, of the jury, I hope you will act according to your honest convictions, and I believe you will.

"I know that your son, Mr. Young (John V. Young, Juror [illegible]) [illegible] one of the [illegible]. But I [illegible] think Mr. Young will let that interfere with his honest action.

"I know Mr. Hope (Samuel B. Hope, Juror No. 11) is a great friend and indebted to Senator Case. I don't believe that will prevent him from acting as he thinks he should.

"I don't believe this jury will kick out in twenty minutes a case that has taken a month to try."

Again pointing out that the trial came four years after the crime Simpson said:

"In the first place, I want you [illegible] four years [illegible]," Simpson went on. "Because somebody bought their way out! There's [illegible] about that."

Charlotte Furious at Attack on Father

By CHARLOTTE MILLS

[illegible]erville, N. J., Dec. 3.—I [illegible] to the jury yesterday, [illegible] I can't know.

[illegible] Senator Simpson makes [illegible] and Judge Parker will [illegible] then I will sit [illegible] doubtfully awaiting the [illegible]

[illegible] session I went [illegible] and I was so furious [illegible] such ridiculous [illegible] Senator Case told the jury [illegible] that my family [illegible] the terrible tragedy that overtook my mother and Dr. Hall [illegible] think that we should have stopped their affair.

Charlotte Mills

But what could we have done; what to stem the tide of love? Even if I had [illegible] I am not sure that I [illegible] one ever [illegible] for [illegible] we wanted [illegible]

[illegible] thing in [illegible] only ha[illegible] And [illegible] nothing [illegible] had ceased to love [illegible] was overpowered by her [illegible] Dr. Hall.

Of course I would not expect Mrs. Hall and her family to understand all that. I believe they are incapable of [illegible] the depth of love.

And [illegible] the defense lawyers wouldn't [illegible] understand it.

The [illegible] to the jury was [illegible] with a [illegible] dramatics. Senator Case went over to Mrs. Hall and raised her hand on high and [illegible] imagine [illegible] a woman committing murder.

[illegible] question I [illegible] stranger things than [illegible] happened in this world. [illegible] making a [illegible] on of [illegible] What has that [illegible] They escaped suspicion long enough on the strength [illegible]

And then [illegible] that Mrs. Gibson [illegible] my mother [illegible] how absurd and [illegible] Case knows it.

[illegible] working Mrs. Gibson [illegible] persons and [illegible] should [illegible] my mother's [illegible] she was dead? [illegible] slashing of the throat [illegible] sought some sort of revenge against my mother. There are few people [illegible] hated her [illegible]

[illegible] Henry Stevens [illegible]

[illegible] Famous Features [illegible]

[illegible] know that this case was kidnaped and taken to New Brunswick where the Stevens owned the banks, controlled the property interests and were the ruling classes.

Justice Was Lynched

"You might as well have investigated [illegible] the parlor of the Rev. Edward W. Hall home. I tell you justice was lynched four years ago; it may be lynched again now. I don't know."

"Willie and Henry Stevens made statements at that time, but the statements were never signed. It finally became necessary to obtain new statements from these men. The case was not properly [illegible] formed and something had to be done.

"In 1922 Mrs. Gibson was talked to by the authorities. She told them her story. But what did they do? [illegible] it over."

Simpson called Senator Clarence E. Case's contention that Mrs. Gibson might have committed the murders as "foolish."

"It was a silly statement," he roared. "A d——n silly statement."

"Bought Way Out"

A note of irony crept into Simpson's voice as he said:

"They said that Mrs. Gibson was once in a circus. I suppose she taught Jennie the mule to shoot off a .32 calibre revolver."

This remark drew a burst of laughter from the packed courtroom.

"Why wasn't there any indictment when he said [illegible] that there can't be any [illegible] in this case and there can be no verdict of acquittal.

Wealth Is on Trial

"The most wonderful thing of all in this case," continued Simpson, "is that wealth is on trial, that wealth with all its satellites, can be brought to court."

HONEY LOU HUNTLEY is private secretary to old "GRUMPY" WALLACK, head of the Wallack factory.

Everyone likes her. She fears JOE MEADOWS, the shipping clerk.

Honey Lou sees JACK WALLACK, "Grumpy's" only son. She likes his looks better than those of any other man she has ever seen. That night when she leaves the building he is waiting for her. He asks her to ride home with him. But with her nose in the air Honey walks on.

One night Honey Lou goes for a drive with Jack, with whom she has fallen suddenly and violently in love. But when he kisses her, Honey Lou slaps his face.

Her mother has brought her up to believe that a kiss is an insult from a man unless he means to marry the girl he kisses. Honey Lou gets out of the car and starts home.

Young Wallack apologizes. Honey Lou explains to him that love-making is an insult to a girl unless the man intends to marry her, and they part friends.

"Home" to Honey Lou is the little Jamaica Plain flat where she lives with her old-fashioned mother and her halfsister MARGRET MOODY.

Young Wallack starts work in the factory. That night she finds him waiting for her outside. He is talking to a beautiful blond girl who is sitting in a closed automobile.

Children Pray for Goodfellow Aid

"We didn't have anything at Christmas last year, but maybe we didn't pray hard enough," writes a 10-year-old South End girl to the Christmas Goodfellow Editor of the Boston Evening American in appealing for assistance for her five young brothers and sisters.

She adds: "We are praying so hard now. We feel sure you will answer our prayers."

The girl's letter in full follows:

"We are six small children and are [illegible]. Daddy is sick and has [illegible] to [illegible] so [illegible] can't work and [illegible]. Please, good friend, help us. Daddy needs an [illegible] and [illegible]. We need stockings and petticoats and [illegible] we are [illegible] asking [illegible].

"I am ten years old and my sisters are 8, 7, 6 years old and my baby sister is 7 months. I have a [illegible] brother four years old. Please don't forget us. We didn't have anything last year, but maybe we didn't pray hard enough. We are praying so hard now. We feel sure you will answer our prayers. Thank you very much and God bless you all."

Very [illegible] clean [illegible] and attics of some of the [illegible] and other articles that would be a Godsend to some of the impoverished families. Many of the letters which have been received by the Christmas Goodfellow Editor [illegible] a mother or grandmother in the family can make over clothing.

You don't have to be rich to give somebody a [illegible] Christmas, Goodfellow. You know you have shoes and old coat or other wearing apparel that you never will use. Why not make a resolution today to bundle [illegible] and see to it that some family who really is in need gets them?

[illegible] wish the name and address of a family who would gladly accept used articles of clothing, shoes, etc., the Christmas Goodfellow Editor will be happy to put you in touch with such a family.

Persons who are too busy to get in personal contact with a family may contribute to the Christmas Goodfellow Fund and this newspaper will gladly serve as agent in purchasing necessities of life and distributing them to the needy.

A little girl named Helen from East Boston writes:

"Will you please give us something for Christmas, as there are five of us? My mother is dead and my father is on a boat and he never comes home. We live with a woman, and my father owes her a lot of money. I know we will not have anything for Christmas.

"Three of us go to school and my brothers work, but they don't make much money, as they are so young. We would like some warm clothing, as we haven't any, and a few toys. Please don't forget us, as we will have nothing for Christmas if some kind persons doesn't help us."

Pupils of the Gertrude Dolan-De Petro Studios of Dancing who are to participate in the two-hour entertainment at the charity ball in Elks Hotel ballroom Wednesday, December 15, for the Christmas Goodfellow Fund are working hard to make the affair a success.

Among the pupils of the Gertrude Dolan-De Petro Studios who will appear in the entertainment program are [illegible] MacLeod, Claire Boles, Annette Becker, Marie Materson, [illegible] Peterson, Ruth Crosby, Geraldine Conlon, Dorothy Moran, Ethel [illegible], Mary Kenney, Gertrude Miller, [illegible] Breen and Irene Hartigan.

LITTLE DANCERS TO HELP.

Others appearing at this performance are Lois Gustafson, Louise Franke, Madelon Sullivan, Edean Campbell, Alice Everett, Dorothy Bougas, Margaret Shinn, Claudia McAuliffe, Esther Lyons, John Fitzgerald, Geraldine Shattuck, Dorothy Davidson, Marion Collins, Dorothy Jacobson, Barbara Collins, Mary Hatter, Phyllis Dowe, Anna Foley, Mona Ramsdell, Ruth [illegible], Gertrude Wallace, Katherine Mulvern, Katherine Moore, Stanley Moran, Mary Sullivan, Margaret [illegible], Gertrude Driscoll, Viola Spencer, Claire Sullivan, Frances Rush and June Johnson.

Valuable assistance is being given to the Goodfellow movement by Mr. and Mrs. A. Silver and Mrs. Milton Harris of Brookline, Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] of Charlestown and John [illegible] of the North End.

Proof that warm hearts still beat in our midst: a little East Boston girl named Teresa is richer by two lovely handmade rag dolls than she was a week ago. These dolls are gifts from Mrs. Thomas W. Rapier of Weld Hill street, Forest Hills, who listened to the radio appeal of the Christmas Goodfellow Editor from WNAC, during the course of which he told of little Teresa's plight. He explained that little Teresa had no dolly, but expected a baby brother or sister for Christmas.

"I am not in a position to give the Christmas Goodfellow Fund any money," said Mrs. Rapier, "but when I learned that a little girl in East Boston had no dolly my heart went out to her, as I always loved dolls when a child and I knew how she must feel to be without one."

WHISTS TO AID FUND.

Among those who are assisting Claudia Campbell of Allston in making the bridge whist and dancing party at Hotel Kenmore, Monday evening, December 13, a success are Mrs. Edward N. Samit, Mrs. William F. Hautz, Dr. Helen P. Kelley, Mrs. A. M. Wheeler, Mrs. Charles E. Arnold, Mrs. Ambrose Murphy and Mrs. Harry G. Wheelock.

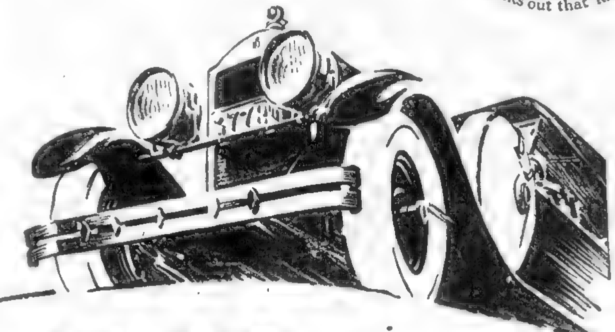
ATLANTIC ETHYL GASOLINE
Knocks out that "knock"



KNOCKS DISAPPEAR LIKE MAGIC

A STEEP hill and a well-laden car . . . they can tell you more about Atlantic Ethyl Gasoline than a thousand-word advertisement.

The first thing they'll say is that no matter how hard the pull . . . no matter how badly carboned your motor may be, here, at last, is a motor fuel that simply cannot cause your engine to "knock."

And as you breeze over the top you'll declare that never since your car lost the shine of newness, has it shown you such vim, power and smoothness! Even motors which are badly worn develop a new spirit, pep and youth when Atlantic Ethyl Gasoline goes into the tank.

Teamwork has turned the trick. It's the remarkable new Atlantic Gasoline combined with the famous Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound developed by General Motors Research Laboratories. Only three cents more per gallon. At Atlantic dealers and service stations.

Made for easy starting in winter
Atlantic Ethyl Gasoline is now on a cold-weather basis — refined with an extra proportion of the more volatile elements needed for easy vaporization and ignition at low temperatures. Note the way it "zips" into action!

THERE is considerable so-called "wise" money being wagered that Mickey Walker wins the world's middleweight crown from Tiger Flowers in their ten-round bout at Chicago tonight. The bettors intimate they know something. In New York the "wise" money is going down on Walker, who, for some strange reason, is a favorite in Broadway betting.

On form Flowers should win from Walker, but if the bout is a peculiar ... in New York ... that is another story again. Since the Dempsey-Tunney affair at Philadelphia, the air has been filled with rumors about big bouts being in the well known satchel. Most of them have been without foundation. Dame Rumor may be doing Flowers and Walker a serious injustice.

Under the conditions, however, don't be so foolish as to bet on the probable outcome of this bout. Betting under any condition is unwise, especially when you are not one of those in the know.

New York, Dec. 3 (A.P.)—Could college professors stand the criticism and close scrutiny that is given the work of major football coaches and still hold their jobs? Dr. Lee Galloway, president of the Alumni Federation of New York University, doesn't think so.

Discussing the benefits of football to undergraduate life at a dinner given the New York University football squad and its coach, "Chick" Meehan, Dr. Galloway told the players that the gridiron sport had the advantage over classical instruction ... of better teaching and closer contact with the student.

"How many ... of the classics would be able to stand the same tests for holding their jobs as Meehan, Andrew Kerr, Gil Dobie, and every other coach in America today?" he asked.

"There are few teachers like one at New York University who dismissed his class a few weeks ago with the injunction that since he couldn't hold their attention and interest, he advised them to spend the remainder of the recitation period watching the football squad perform under 'Chick' Meehan—and see what a real teacher could do."

The Violet squad, under Meehan this year, won all but the final game of the season, an intersectional meeting with Nebraska at Lincoln.

Thus far there has been no declaration from the Yale Athletic Board of Control regarding the recent statement by Bingham that Harvard looks forward to a permanent scheduling of the final contest in each athletic sport with the New Haven college. Bible Inspires Flowers; Champ Reads Scriptures

Chicago, Dec. 3 (INS)—With a well-thumbed Bible in his hands, the same he used when he was steward in the Bethel Colored Methodist Church at Atlanta, Tiger Flowers whiled away the hours before his scheduled start at the Coliseum tonight in defense of his middleweight title against Mickey Walker.

The little book of Scriptures is Flowers' constant companion. He has it with him always. The fighting deacon said his favorite verse was part of the 144th Psalm, which reads:

"Blessed be the Lord my strength, which teacheth my hands to war and my fingers to fight."

WONDERFUL NEW REMEDY FOR RHEUMATIC ACHES AND PAINS

Liniment They Use on Big League Ball Players Like Coveleski

Stops Aches, Pains, Stiffness Quickly

Big league baseball stars like Walter Johnson, Bucky Harris, Ty Cobb, Herb Pennock, George Sisler, Coveleski and others cannot afford to be laid up with aches, pains, swollen joints or stiffness a single day, so they must use the best remedy money can buy.

The liniment they use out at the ball park works like lightning and in a jiffy relieves aches, pains, stiffness, swollen joints due to sprains, rheumatic troubles, neuralgia, etc. A thousand times each baseball season this wonderful liniment does its work in big league, professional and amateur baseball circles, and yet this liniment they use is so mild it would not harm a baby's skin and never blisters no matter how much you rub it in or bandage it up.

The liniment is named after the famous trainer Mike Martin, the man who for years was trainer of the New York "Yankees," Cincinnati "Reds," Columbia University, etc., and who now is trainer of Washington's [illegible] American League [illegible] baseball club.

[illegible] Mike Martin's Liniment. [illegible] joints stiff [illegible] should get a bottle. It is pleasant to use, never stains, and by rubbing a little into the sore, stiff, achy parts you get almost magic relief.

Ball players often catch cold, get sore or banged up and come to the ball park hardly able to walk, yet out they come from a good rub with Mike Martin's Liniment, as lively, full of pep and ginger as anybody could wish. Watch them scamper and prance in rain or shine. You'd never dream they ever had an ache or pain in their lives. Mike Martin by making this liniment available to the general public in drug stores is doing a great thing for those who suffer. If reader lives out of town and druggist hasn't it, write Mike Martin, Ball Park, Washington, D. C., and he will send a large size bottle with full directions, parcel post, for $1.00. All good druggists sell smaller trial size bottles for a few cents.

CENTER AND BACKFIELD ACE OF BROOKLINE HIGH ELEVEN

EVERETT WILL WATCH THIS YOUNGSTER

This expert ball handler will be much in the limelight when the Brookline and Everett elevens clash at Braves Field in their post-season combat. His name is Johnny Morrison and he is adept in passing, kicking and running with the ball.

HE MAY WATCH OR PLAY, OR BOTH

Here is Bert Gleason, the extra pivot of the Brookline team who probably will not start but will see action in some part of the fray with Everett if he has his way about it. Gleason yields the pivot post to Leeson at the outset of the encounter.

ANY COACH WOULD WELCOME THESE TEAMS

BUGS BAER, whimsical philosopher, says that his All-America team would have a fifty-yard field because it would always be in enemy territory, and would only need one goal post because nobody would ever score against it. There's plenty of common sense beneath the cynicism of those remarks. Picking eleven athletes from five or six thousand who represent colleges here, there and everywhere should produce an outfit that would be as tough as a boarding house towel and as fast as a Greenwich Village vamp. And that combination would be like a quart of feathers, hard to beat. These post-season teams generally make the football fan wonder how the picker got that way. Each reader can name eleven men who would lick the theoretical tar out of the nominations put up to him. That's why "All" teams are selected. They start arguments and contentions, and even give cause for physical combat, although said collisions have lost their zest and promiscuity, what with the abolishment of the hot Tom and Jerry and similar matchmakers. But every writer counts that year lost whose snow-laden December finds no All-America teams elected. Wherefore, after scanning the public prints, wiring to coaches and talking to players, watching crucial games and wars not so crucial, we submit three combinations that contain all the elements of greatness, individually and collectively, and would each figure to emerge unbeaten from any collection of enemies it might happen to run up against.

Nick Flatley

It would be comparatively easy to name three entirely different teams that would pack just as much stuff. But if you feel that way, roll your own.

THE SOCIETIES FOR PERPETUAL PEACE NEVER WILL BE ABLE TO TALK AWAY THE BELLIGERENCY RESULTING FROM THAT ARMY-NAVY TIE.

Most football coaches seem to [illegible] being the tie outside

FIVE BRUINS ON THREE BIG TEAMS

SIFTING the candidates, if done carefully, gives a residue that finds members of the great teams lingering around the pinnacle. A summary of the three above elevens discloses that there are five Brown players in the flock, three each from the Army and Navy, two from Lafayette, Michigan, Northwestern, Notre Dame and Stanford. That brings in all the unbeaten teams except Alabama and Boston College, and each has a representative in the ranks.

Brown leads in numbers, the Bruins being the closest of the big boys to these parts. Anybody who watched that team play a couple of games has a tough time scratching any one of the iron men.

Team Number One, possibly the strongest combination, represents [illegible] institutions, the only team getting two members aboard being Lafayette, the one Eastern squad that was neither beaten nor tied.

With these few words, we trust that football is interred until the whistles start blowing sometime in the next September.

BOSTON UNIV. HAS VETERAN QUINTET

By MAURICE KRAMER.

Coach Winfred Karlson has one more week to put the finishing touches on the Boston University basketball team for the opening game with [illegible] at the B. U. Gym Dec. 11. He has made one cut and [illegible] before the campaign starts.

At present it looks as though Boston University will have the strongest five that ever represented the school. The team is led by [illegible], one of the best forwards in [illegible] basketball ranks. In [illegible] last year he scored fifty [illegible].

Three football backs are on the squad. These men are Harry [illegible], Gus O'Brien and "[illegible]" Hurley. The first named is a [illegible] and the last two are forwards [illegible] the gridiron.

Coach [illegible] problem is to develop a center in a week. The mentor is now working on two [illegible]. They are both [illegible] and possess good eyes. If Karlson is able to make one of these [illegible] into a star he will not need to worry about his club.

The team is looking forward to the game with Harvard on Dec. [illegible] will be [illegible] game and the Crimson [illegible]

B. U. Honors Gridders and 'Kid' Cochrane

Students of the nine schools and colleges of Boston University honored the members of the fighting Terriers football team and Gordon "Kid" Cochrane, former B. U. star at the all-university assembly at the Arena.

More than 6,000 students attended the affair which was presided over by President Daniel L. Marsh.

Gold footballs voted by the officials of the athletic council were awarded to 20 members of the [illegible] who made their varsity letters this Fall on the gridiron. [illegible] university sports gathered together on the platform [illegible] duced to the students by [illegible] Marsh.

Present as an official guest of the university was Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane, former Boston University football ace and [illegible] star [illegible] of the P[illegible] Athletics.

The Bridgewater boy sat with members of the board of trustees on the platform. When he was presented to the assembly he was accorded one of the greatest [illegible] ever given at a Boston University gathering.

NORTHEASTERN FIVE TO OPEN AGAINST TECH

Northeastern's objective basketball games with Tech, B. U. and Tufts come early on the schedule and Coach Rufus Bond is [illegible] his tossers practicing at [illegible] to take the Engineers [illegible] in the opener, Saturday, December 11.

Although the Tech game is what all Northeastern is talking about now, the team is not forgetting the clash with the Terriers for the championship of Back Bay on January 8. Both Tech and B. U. play in the Northeastern gym.

Candy Making for Holiday Pin Money

By MARTHA LEE

MANY of my readers, I find, are planning to make Christmas pin money through selling home-made cakes, candy, etc. Many others are planning to stretch Christmas dollars by making home-made goodies for gifts.

These home-made treasures are certainly personal, unusual and delicious and may be as handsomely boxed as a professional package at a fraction of the expense.

For instance, six pounds of delicious confections can be packed in six decorated tin boxes or inexpensive baskets at a fraction over 18 cents each, complete. This is unusually inexpensive because the candies I have in mind are dates stuffed with four different fillings and two kinds of candy.

The tin boxes, baskets and paper doilies come from any 5 and 10-cent store or novelty shop. The boxes can be divided, if you wish, with little strips of white cardboard. A few colored gumdrops or candied cherries give the needed touch of color.

To make these six boxes of candy, six packages of dates are needed, four for stuffing and two chopped in the candy. With the new date pitter that I told you about in the marketing column last Monday, pitting dates is no longer difficult. This useful article is 27 cents by mail, with a splendid recipe book thrown in for good measure.

Having pitted your four pounds of dates, divide them into six equal parts and then go ahead with these recipes!

BANANA FONDANT STUFFING—Mash one ripe banana with a fork, gradually beating in a pound of confectioner's sugar. Add for flavoring one-half teaspoon vanilla, one teaspoon lemon juice and a pinch of salt. This fondant will just harden enough when stuffed inside the date. There is filling for two packages of pitted dates. Thirty-six ounces of finished candy—a cost of 65 cents complete.

PEANUT BUTTER STUFFING AND NUTS—Add one tablespoon of lemon juice to two and one-half ounces of peanut butter. Mix well and use to stuff three-fourths of a package of dates. Use peanuts or other nuts for stuffing to decorate the boxes. Stand several pieces on end in a pitted date. One and a half ounces of nuts will supply a dozen confections. Thirty-three cents will cover this cost.

MARSHMALLOW STUFFING—Cut ten marshmallows in quarters—one quarter for each date. Stuff and put on baking sheet under flame of broiler till marshmallows are light brown. Thirty-four cents will cover cost of these stuffed dates.

DATE-NUT CANDY—1 package of dates, ¼ pound cocoanut, ½ cup walnuts, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind.

DATE APRICOT CANDY—1 package dates, ¼ pound figs, ¼ pound apricots, ¼ pound cocoanut, 1 tablespoon orange juice, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind.

In both recipes run the dried fruits (also cocoanut and nuts) through a meat grinder. Moisten with fruit juice and knead in the rind. Roll out with a rolling pin into a sheet a quarter-inch thick. Cut with small cutter into rounds one inch in diameter—or roll into balls.

GLACE DATES—1½ cups sugar, ½ cup water, ⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar, dates.

Cook sugar, water and cream of tartar quickly until a little poured into cold water cracks [illegible]—if using candy thermometer cook to 310 degrees F. Stone dates and [illegible] or stuff cavities with nut meats, fondant or finely chopped candied orange peel. [illegible] one into the glace, lifting out with fork or candy dipper onto oiled platter. Work quickly, as glace cools rapidly.

DATE COCOANUT MACAROONS—1½ cups cocoanut, ½ cup condensed milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1 egg white.

Mix cocoanut, condensed milk and vanilla thoroughly. Beat egg white until stiff, combine mixtures, shape into cakes. Bake in moderate oven—350-375 degrees F.—fifteen minutes.

Faithfully yours,

Martha Lee

PASSION is a storm that rages and PASSES.
But LOVE comes like the dawn, so quietly that
One does not perceive it till it has ARRIVED.

'The Secret Studio'; Rosemary Cries as She Leaves Her Cell at the Prison

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON.

CHAPTER 60.

ROSEMARY sat up on the prison cot and glared at them all inimically. "I don't need any lawyer or pull or anything," she said bitterly. "I didn't kill her! Do [illegible] I'm a murderer? [illegible] coming here and [illegible]

"A half-crazy [illegible] takes me for somebody else and drops dead, and [illegible] until they straighten [illegible] That's tough on me [illegible] I disgraced the family [illegible] into the papers.

"But you don't have to come crying over me as if I were a criminal. I haven't done anything wrong [illegible] and if you ex[illegible] around hanging my [illegible] you're mistaken. You wait, I'll show you, I'll show you."

She stretched out her arms, threw back her head and defied them, defied them to be ashamed of her and cry over her.

Gertie took a little step back, her eyes swimming. As a red neck seemed to thicken, he pulled at his [illegible] were choking him [illegible] I better go," the [illegible]

The door closed on them and Rosemary fell wildly weeping, back on the gray blanketed prison bed.

* * *

Another day of tossing, another of waiting. And about half-past [illegible] she really didn't care [illegible] dearie—you [illegible] care how I look, Mrs.

"Now, now, don't take it so to heart. Hold still; I'm going to put just a LITTLE bit of powder—Cashmere Bouquet—and pull your hat over your eyes just a bit——"

"You've been awfully good to me, Mrs. Harvey!" Rosemary began to cry again. She had hardly stopped since Gertie left the day before. Her red rimmed eyes were inexhaustible [illegible] of tears, in her swollen, discolored face. She gripped the matron's kind, plump hand and tried to smile, but she couldn't. "I can't ever thank you——"

"Goodby, dearie. Keep a stiff upper lip and don't let what anybody says get under your skin."

[illegible] Miss Merton. Sorry we had to keep you. The inspector shook her hand. "Hold on—I'll get one of the boys to drive you home."

"Oh, no, thanks—I think it would do me good to walk. Goodby!" She went back and took Mrs. Harvey's hand again. "Goodby!"

It was funny, but she almost dreaded leaving—jail. These people understood. They knew she wasn't really a bad girl. They knew it wasn't her fault that Mrs. Cuyler had apoplexy, and died in her apartment. But would anyone else understand? Gertie didn't! She walked faster, swallowing the rising sob. She couldn't go to Gertie's and she couldn't go back to the apartment——

"Oh, Sloan! Come back!" her heart cried. But she knew he would not hear.

Without knowing just how she got there she found herself climbing the [illegible] steps, and she had come so far. She rapped on the door crying a little. Nobody answered. Ellen wasn't home. She cried a bit more, shaking the doorknob. Why were people always out when you needed them?

Then she remembered that it was not yet 5 o'clock. Too early for Ellen and Hal to be home. She sat down on the top step to wait.

"Rosemary! You poor kid. Come in—how long have you been waiting? Oh, I'm so glad you came to us. I've wanted to go to you, but I thought you'd rather be alone till it was all over. I know I would, so I just sent the note. No, don't sit on that chair—I [illegible] Sunday [illegible] one—[illegible]—Lord and not a drop to drink in the house——"

Then Hal came in. "Well, look who's here. The original hard luck [illegible] Rosemary, you had a hard deal. Why, that big fat slob had to go and pick out your apartment to die in——"

"Yes, with the whole town to choose from, she had to come and flop in Rosemary's place. Well, never mind, old dear, it's all over, and you've certainly been a good sport!" Ellen's voice was warm and full of sympathy. Rosemary began to feel better. She had been morbid to think people wouldn't understand—of course they would. Weren't Ellen and Hal?

"The coffee's boiling over!" Hal snatched it off the stove. Ellen scooped the potato salad out of the pasteboard carton, and cut thick slices of warm French bread.

"Of course this is the biggest thing that could happen to Nina," Ellen said, passing sliced tomatoes to Rosemary. "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good. And think what a blessing for Cuyler!"

In her worry and shame Rosemary had hardly realized that. She brightened now. "Oh, it is, isn't it? Dear old Nina—I am so glad for her. I had them cable her. I suppose Cuyler got the news from his lawyers, but I wanted to tell Nina myself. I hadn't thought how much it would mean to her. Why—they can be married!"

They could be married! Married! And she thought of Sloan Whitney tragically. Nina could be married . . . thank goodness sometimes love was real . . . sometimes it didn't fool you . . .

"Oh, by the way, Mr. Whitney paid his bill."

Ellen flashed a look of absolute contempt at Hal. Tact? The man didn't know there was such a thing. "Have some more tomatoes," she cried, trying to steer Rosemary away from the painful subject.

But Rosemary didn't even hear her. She was leaning forward, her lips parted, her eyes starry. "He did! Oh, I knew he would—I knew it"——

Hal looked embarrassed. "Well, I don't know much about it," he said. "All I know is Graham got his money through some lawyer, and they say Whitney's offices have been closed and his polo ponies are up for sale. Quite a lot of talk over it—You know he had some of the finest in the country."

"But where is he?"

"I don't know. That's the funny part. He's disappeared clean as a whistle. Some say he went broke"—

The Making of a Husband Serial

By Ann Lisle

AND then, [illegible] girl, instead of a woman [illegible] fifty, Lorraine launched upon the descriptions and explanations [illegible] romance which occupied [illegible] spare time between our marketing for corn and butter and eggs and [illegible] goods and fruits and [illegible] the Walker [illegible] over [illegible]

Her [illegible] was evident. Her happiness was dazzling. And [illegible] the time we got home I forgot that young Dean is fifteen years younger than Lorraine and that my instinctive reaction had been an unpleasant one, realizing that Dean's mother is the woman whose face cream Lorraine is backing and I am to [illegible] and help promote.

"Not a word yet," said Lorraine. "Keep my secret until I decide to release it."

I promised, but began to wonder if it was [illegible] an open secret when Irma [illegible] me [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] is lovely, I said [illegible]

And then go mad at [illegible] she tell you about [illegible]

"I suppose [illegible] years [illegible] I smiled [illegible] Irma, said [illegible] Walker [illegible] He was so persistent. He actually followed [illegible] around like a lost doggie. His mother adores him," she added with what seemed like irrelevance at the moment.

Mothers have a way of [illegible] they [illegible] I said, [illegible] doing all I could to keep faith with Lorraine and to hide from Irma that I was in her sister-in-law's confidence.

At this Irma caught my hand in hers. The pressure of her fingers [illegible] a wonderful thing to [illegible] one with a good [illegible] making my [illegible] put up her soft [illegible] to mine.

"I wanted you to know," said Irma. [illegible] That was why I was so eager to have Peter bring you. I wanted to tell you here in the country where everything is clean and [illegible] You brought us together [illegible] and me. We never forget. And so we wanted you to know how [illegible] is going to be next Winter.

Then she tore herself from my embrace and ran from the room on feet that seemed winged with happiness and rejoicing.

I ran to the window and throwing the casement wide open, I leaned out to breathe the soft night air with its perfume of balsam and [illegible] And I said a little prayer for [illegible] and Peter and the [illegible] life [illegible] I sat there thinking [illegible] rejoicing for them. And when at last I went to bed it was with a heart full of tenderness.

But I [illegible] not sleep. I lay [illegible] staring into [illegible] with cynical [illegible] of happiness [illegible] never wanted the [illegible] held us together [illegible] and her youth came to bee[illegible] to Jim.

How long I lay awake I do not know, but after a few fitful hours of sleep I awoke with the sun. But I did not arise and go to the [illegible] above the marshes. I did not want another tete-a-tete with Loren Haldane, for I knew I had hurt him yesterday by my confidence with [illegible] and I could not trust myself to be alone with him again without pouring out my heart to him.

I mustn't do it, I admonished myself. "I'm in an atmosphere of emotion where everyone save me seems to be finding happiness. I must rejoice with them, not think about myself."

"Do you?"

"Y-yes."

They laughed together, softly, joyously.

But they went on into the night and later they breakfasted well at a hospitable farm house.

When he parted from Derry at her door, she repeated: "I love you, Tony." But this time it was less joyous, less defiant, more thoughtful, deeper drawn from depths of her womanhood still unsounded.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

"Who's 'The Head,' for goodness sake?" Honey Lou asked.

"My mother." He laughed. "My dad and I always call her that. He may be the big noise down at the factory, but at home it's my mother who runs things. I'd like you to meet my mother, Honey Lou. She's a wonder."

Tom Winston and This Freedom

By Louise P. Armstrong

TOM WINSTON came home in a very disagreeable frame of mind. Things had not been going well at the office and he had lost a case in the Supreme Court. He found Dolly, his wife, seated on the long davenport before the fire, her curly head bent over a writing pad.

"We're having Miss Williams from the Y. W. to dine," she informed her husband. "She's asked me to help her with the opening of the community house in the railroad district and I've been working over a program all evening."

"[illegible]," [illegible] Tom, "do we have to have that old dragon? I don't feel in any humor to listen to her all evening."

Dolly laughed indulgently. "Take a book and excuse yourself after dinner," she said.

Tom stalked out of the room and a moment later his little wife hurried to open the front door and usher in her guest, Miss Williams.

Tom listened to her silently that night across the candle-lighted table, listened also to Dolly's approval of ev[illegible] and saw the enthusiastic light in the little wife's blue eyes, [illegible] of admiration on her [illegible]. And Tom began to have misgivings.

When they [illegible] the living room after the meal, Miss Williams and Dolly at once became immersed in plans, drawings, [illegible] and [illegible]. Tom [illegible] his pipe and [illegible] listening [illegible] to [illegible] they were [illegible] trying to grasp the [illegible]. There was talk of a family budget, [illegible] rooms, rules of [illegible] and [illegible].

"Miss Williams thinks," Dolly announced the following evening, "that I spend entirely too much time over my housekeeping [illegible] broaden my [illegible]."

"Look here," her husband interrupted [illegible] wouldn't trouble to tell me what Miss Williams thinks! I never want to see her here again. And I hope you're not going to continue being so intimate with her; she's poisoning your mind with her crazy notions! Too much time over housekeeping indeed! Why, my mother [illegible]—"

"Your mother," Dolly retorted, "now don't go quoting your mother to me. [illegible] a different generation and the scope of woman's life has broadened since your mother's time."

Tom turned away [illegible] scorning to make any further reply.

The next day Dolly telephoned to the office. "Oh, Tom, can't you stop downtown and get your dinner [illegible]? [illegible] off [illegible] and I haven't time to bother with cooking. Miss Williams and I are going to have a cold bite in the pantry before we go out to the House. Don't worry about my being late, dear," she added. "There'll be so much to do!"

"But, Dolly," he was driven to remonstrate, "I do mind your being out late—driving alone after dark."

"Oh, bother, I'm not an infant!" she cut him off, and then hung up the receiver.

He dined at the hotel, a place at which he had eaten regularly in his bachelor days. Now the food tasted soggy and the coffee was beyond the pale! He felt savagely that he was being cremated and he [illegible] Miss Williams.

A coolness sprang up between Tom Winston and his wife, which [illegible] as the days passed. They were formerly polite always, and Tom felt that he had himself well in hand. He never complained at late meals, meals from the delicatessen or no [illegible] at [illegible].

Dolly was taking a keen interest in the Community House, and its possibilities as a means of aiding our less fortunate neighbors. Formerly, he would have been very much interested.

But here his interest in what he secretly felt was going to prove an institution of value to the town ran abruptly into his outraged emotions. So he simply ignored the whole undertaking, and he rejoiced to see how much he hurt his wife in doing so.

On the night the House was formally dedicated, Tom phoned that he would be detained downtown and would get his dinner there. Dolly's voice was strained when she answered, "Very well."

Over his solitary meal his thoughts were dark. He and Dolly seemed to be standing at the cross-roads of life. He had seen men who had succumbed to the foolish notions of their wives, husbands who had become nonentities in their own homes.

But Tom told himself that he would never play second fiddle. Stuff and nonsense, this broadening of her mind! [illegible] that he was lonely and the hotel was a forsaken place.

He had seen tears in Dolly's eyes that morning. He had hurt her—and after all she was just a child!

He picked up his hat and coat and made for the door. Outside he called a taxi and stepped briskly into it. "Drive down to the Community House in the railroad district," he ordered.

When Tom entered the cheerful living room of his home the next evening he sniffed the air in surprise. A delicious odor of sweet spiciness! He hastened into the kitchen, to see Dolly in a pink gingham apron bending over a bubbling kettle in which doughnuts were frying.

"Wait until I've sprinkled the sugar on them Tom! And don't eat more than one—it'll spoil your appetite for dinner. I've cooked a gorgeous meal. This is Annie's evening off, and I've just been having a perfect orgy of cooking."

Tom stared at her flushed face; she smiled at him gayly.

"Now that the Community House is off my mind," she said, "I guess I'd better get back at my job of housekeeping."

"Then you're not going to continue," he couldn't help asking, "the broadening of your mind, Dolly?"

She stuck a fork into a fat golden doughnut and laid it on waxed paper. "Indeed, I am," she answered thoughtfully. "It will do more than anything else, so Miss Williams says, to make me appreciate the possibilities of my own home."

He bent to kiss her tenderly.

A CHILD'S COUGH EASY TO STOP THE DOCTORS DECLARE

But It Is Hard to Find a Remedy That Children Like to Take

PARENTS SHOULD REMEMBER THIS

Any harmless cough remedy soon stops the coughs and colds of children because their little bodies throw off such troubles easily, provided they are not delicate and sickly.

But where am I to get something children will like to take is a big question. Cod Liver Oil is nasty and you must take it such a long time.

Here is the answer of doctors who know and love children: "Give the child 'Linonine,' a nice-tasting, creamy white, Flaxseed, Eucalyptus, etc., mixture, far better than Cod Liver Oil and quicker, too. The kiddies love it and it is as harmless and effective as can be."

Thousands of modern mothers keep a bottle always at hand for coughs, colds and to build up and strengthen the children this time of year. A cough is a nasty, dangerous thing for children. Well stocked druggists have Linonine, made by the nationally known Kerr Chemical Co., 60c or $1.00 sizes, or send dollar bill to Kerr Chemical Co., Brentwood, Md., for large bottle by return mail.

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE--BY HELEN ROWLAND

By Helen Rowland

To one girl who prays to be some man's "guiding star," these days, there are ninety-nine praying to be his "coral reef," his Circe, or his Lorelei.

A man's love may live on the stimulant of hope, but never on the anaesthetic of gratitude. In his opinion, a kiss, like virtue, is its own reward!

* * *

When a man says, "I never loved like this before!", he may be telling the truth. There are so many varieties of love that no one of them ever attacks the same person twice.

* * *

Before marriage, a woman's diary is a chronicle of her own emotions—after marriage, it is a record of her husband's omissions.

* * *

A bride makes the bitter discovery that the honeymoon is over the first night she has to get up and put the windows down in the rain.

* * *

A man always mistakes confession for reform—because it makes him feel so good and pure; besides, it gives him the opportunity to revel in his sins all over again, in retrospect.

* * *

A man never knows how much he values a woman or an umbrella, until he sees some OTHER man sneaking up and trying to walk off with one or the other.

* * *

For a woman, the saddest fate is to be born with a "perfectly thirty-six" soul, and a chiffon temperament, and to have to carry them all through life under a hundred-and-sixty-pound figure.

* * *

Love is not always "life's sweetest gift"; it is sometimes merely a loan—at an extortionate rate of interest.

* * *

Nowadays, the average man's love-making is almost as flattering, as evasive and as vague as a magazine rejection slip.

SKIN TROUBLE COVERS BODY

At last finds treatment which cleared it away in few days

Badger, Minn., March 1:—"A while ago I was troubled with a skin disease, a mild case of itch, which was very distressing. It began on my leg and was most aggravating; the more I scratched it, the more it itched. Finally a number of tiny pimples formed and soon spread all over my body. It became so bad that I did not know what to do about it and was going to consult a physician when a friend of mine suggested that I try Resinol Ointment. I bought a jar the next day and was delighted with the relief I obtained after the first application. A few more treatments and the itch was entirely gone. I have also used Resinol Soap and Ointment for blackheads and pimples and it helped wonderfully. I cannot praise Resinol enough for all the good it has done me."

An Awful Trip to New York!

They had twelve horses and two stages between Boston and New York. The roads were very bad, and the jaded, hungry passenger would arrive at a tavern at 9 or 10 o'clock at night. He would be aroused at 3 o'clock in the morning, and the stage would soon be on its way. IN TWO WEEKS the stage would roll into New York. The trip now is about five hours.

The pianos then were very crude. Today they are perfected. Look at the Kranich & Bach Grand. It is the last word in Piano creation. What a sensation our marvelous Auto piano would have made then! Imagine! We know that we have the piano that you are looking for. Everything in Pianos. Confidential terms. Liberal allowance for the old Piano. Plenty of pianos for rent.

P. S. Will you take a fine used Piano, good for years? Here is a Steinway Upright for $300.00. Looks like new!

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

AMONG the newest publications on the market is a complete set of road maps for somnambulists.

WHEN a man walks in his sleep he likes to know where he's going.

HE hates to go to bed and get lost.

THESE maps enable you to slumber and see the country at the same time.

ONE fellow used to walk in his sleep so much that he went to bed in his hiking shoes.

HE got up one morning all tired out. The roads that night had been terrible.

HE wasn't a member of the somnambulists' touring club and consequently didn't know the detours.

HE went to bed in Illinois and woke up in Ohio.

HE had to go right back to sleep in order to get home again.

HE only stopped long enough to have his bedroom slippers vulcanized.

SOME people seem to think that somnambulism is a terrible thing, but it's wonderful to be able to tour the country while you're unconscious.

ONE man is so anxious to see America that he's going to bed earlier at night.

HE'S even planning a trip to Europe as soon as he learns how to swim.

Hip Pockets and Petting

"Frantic Hands," and Other Things

Fathers and mothers of 250 boys and girls at the Bucknell Co-Educational University resent as "indelicate" questions put to the young people. The girls call the questions "embarrassing." They refer to "smoking, swearing, carrying hip flasks and petting parties."

The important thing to historians of this period will be the fact that the questions should be asked.

That it should be necessary to ask boys and girls under twenty whether they carry and drink bootleg liquor, and to ask young girls whether they permit indecent familiarity, is a comment on our prohibition civilization.

Fannie Hurst, who has eyes and sees, describing the Hall-Mills murder trial, says of Mrs. Hall, widow of the murdered man: "Her face was quiet, under perfect control, but her hands were frantic."

"Down behind the railing which enclosed her, like flames that kept leaping up and had to be dashed down again, were her hands. They belied the curious stone-like quiet of the head and shoulders. They were nervous, frantic hands. They dug and bit at one another, and kept wanting to leap upward, but were restrained in time."

Human beings, studying faces from childhood, learn to control the expression. Not so with the hands or with the feet. In India, when a native testifies the lawyer watches his bare feet. It is said, "The Hindu will twist his toes when he is lying."

In the Marlborough-Vanderbilt marriage annulment excitement, along comes this news from the past. Bishop Littlejohn of the Protestant Episcopal Church, who officiated at the Vanderbilt-Marlborough marriage, had a daughter, Maude Littlejohn, who married Almet F. Jenks, later presiding justice in a high court, thirteen years ago.

Thirty-five years ago the Bishop's daughter got a Rhode Island divorce on grounds that the Protestant Episcopal Church in New York did not recognize.

Four Protestant Episcopal Bishops, Williams of Connecticut, Scarborough of New Jersey, Starkey of New Jersey, Potter of New York, were summoned. They annulled the marriage from the start, signing their names to a statement that the marriage was "the same as though such marriage had not taken place."

There evidently are exceptions to everything, even to the "unbreakable marriage bond," if you find good reasons for breaking it.

The American Institute of Architects wants to repair and preserve the beautiful Church of Santa Sophia, now a Mohammedan mosque, in Constantinople. The Turks will consent if American money does the repairing. That church has seen strange scenes. When the Turks took Constantinople, the faithful gathered in the square before Saint Sophia, believing that when the Turks reached that spot angels would appear with flaming swords to destroy them. The Turks came, but the angels didn't, and the faithful crowd was destroyed.

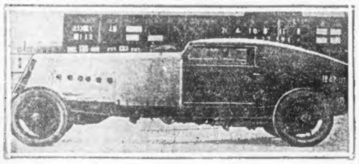
Mussolini has a simpler plan. He would give Kemal Pasha and the rest of Turkey a beating, change Saint Sophia back to a Catholic Church, and attach a few Fascist emblems to commemorate his deed. He is a doer.

Baron Kalysant, able Britisher, leads the world in shipping. Buying the White Star Line from American owners gives him a total of 538 ships. Kalysant is perhaps the biggest shipping individual since Jacques Coeur, the Frenchman, got his dose of ingratitude from the French King.

Uncle Sam has "the price," and if he knew how HE would be the big ship owner. But he is represented by gentlemen that find it easier to sell than manage, and again his flag is gradually fading from the ocean. Too bad, after the hundreds of millions spent for shipping during the war.

How'd You Like This One?

What a Delight for the Gay Young Man of the Period



THIS CAR WON A RACE IN FRANCE, AVERAGING MORE THAN 108 MILES PER HOUR

Many a young man's heart will beat as he looks at this picture.

A French car, especially designed for speed. It fills the bill.

It established a twenty-four-hour record at Monthery, going more than 108 miles an hour.

You can imagine the noise that this foreign car makes, with its six openings on both sides, the engine going at full power.

Men crave romance, and the most prosaic of them would like to look romantic. That is why cars with a body and a "hood" like this would sell rapidly, if gay young men had the money to buy them.

Some American car manufacturer could stimulate his market considerably by turning out a car that would make the owner look like a roaring dragon on four wheels.

We all like to make an impression, but few of us have the patience to try to do it by hard work and brain work.

REMARKABLE PAIR IN OPERA WORLD

By DR. FRANK CRANE

ONE of the most remarkable personalities that the world has ever known was the dual personality known as Gilbert and Sullivan.

The names are inextricably blended together. Either one of them counts for nothing without the other.

A new book has just been issued in England, giving a critical estimate of this remarkable pair.

It speaks very highly of their product and has some opinions to express about the two personages.

Neither of them was particularly a success independent of the other.

Sullivan aspired to write wonderful music, but he never did anything apart from Gilbert that was very striking. He seemed to be of ordinary, melifluous tissue.

Neither did Gilbert excel apart from Sullivan. Few people remember his "Bab Ballads" nowadays, although at the time they were published they were supposed to be very clever. Time has set them down merely as pretty jingles.

The combination of Gilbert's poems and Sullivan's music, however, produced an exquisite flavor of humor found nowhere else. Time, the severest of critics, has passed upon it, and even today they are as popular perhaps as the latest production.

Gilbert's pawky humor seems to be admirably adapted to Sullivan's melodies, and some of the lines have entered permanently into English speech.

The author of the book referred to considers Pooh-Bah as their greatest male character, and Katisha as the greatest female impersonation.

Older people will remember when at the time it was published "Pinafore" spread like wildfire throughout the world.

Critics found fault with it and pointed out the various weaknesses of Gilbert and Sullivan's other works, but critics also almost unanimously condemned "Abie's Irish Rose," which at the present writing is in its fifth year in New York. Critics are often right, but they are sometimes wrong.

It is somewhat rare for humorous works to attain permanent popularity, but Gilbert and Sullivan's operettas have stood the test of time and they are still today remarkable examples of a certain delicate and subtle humor that is appreciated throughout the English-speaking world.

DON'T MAKE LIGHT OF TRIVIAL MISTAKES

You are prone to make too light of your mistakes.

"Oh, well, I know I did that, but what of it?" you say.

Your mistakes might be your guide posts, to help you and keep you from repeating the same errors.

Instead you pass the matter over lightly and then fall into the same pit as soon as conditions permit.

But you say, "So-and-So has no business to show up my mistakes and I am not going to correct them for him."

And that is where you are wrong. If you find out you are making a mistake almost before it is accomplished, why not switch yourself into the right path and rectify it that much more quickly?

It is the attitude of condoning your mistakes that keeps you a second-rater instead of a top-notcher.

But you want to be light-hearted, carefree and you can't see why your superiors make such a fuss over trivial things.

The difference between your work and the experts, is that the expert thinks no point too trivial to perfect, and you make light of all mistakes.

Odds and Ends of the Town

MERGERS

REGARDLESS of the fact that COUNCILLOR HORACE GUILD of JAMAICA PLAIN failed to impress his colleagues in the CITY COUNCIL with the importance of a merger of the Registry and Health Departments and the joining of the Public Buildings Department with the Market Department, it is not unlikely that Legislature will be petitioned next year for a merger of the auditing, treasury, budget and city collector offices into one grand department with a comptroller at its head. MAYOR NICHOLS is said to be favorably inclined towards such a move.

LOCKS IT UP

The city directory has a value far over its purchase price to the assessors at CITY HALL. In years past one of the big books would look like a sponge that had seen years of service within a fortnight after it had been placed on the counters. Accordingly it had to be replaced by a new one, which lasted only a similar length of time. JOHN SULLIVAN, one of the secretaries to the board, has found a way to make one directory last a whole year. John's solution of the problem was simple. He has the directory locked in the safe, and only those who have real use for it are allowed to take it out.

HOT ENOUGH FOR HIM

"Fire!" yelled JOSEPH F. NORTON of No. 453 DUDLEY STREET, ROXBURY, to "BUFFALO BILL" VINCENZO, in a barber shop as he sat in a chair waiting for heat to be turned on so he could get a haircut in comfort. VINCENZO, in the cellar, yelled: "Everything's all right: you'll soon have heat." NORTON, jumping from the chair, ripped burning curtains from a wall. VINCENZO, emerging from the cellar, gasped for breath. Firemen extinguished the blaze.

NEW ACTIVITY

MISS GRETA C. COLEMAN, lawyer, has just been appointed chairman of the Legal Status of Women committee for the MASSACHUSETTS LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS. She is one of the brightest, most capable women, serving the interests of her sex and promoting the best in legislation without partisan bias. She is a graduate of RADCLIFFE and the UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO LAW SCHOOL, and has served four years on the BOSTON LEGAL AID SOCIETY.

That a college training can be turned to great practical advantage by a woman in dealing with the practical problems of city life is made evident in the achievements of MISS ABIGAIL A. ELIOT, director of BOSTON NURSERY TRAINING SCHOOL, No. 147 RUGGLES STREET. She holds degrees from RADCLIFFE and for special courses in HARVARD. She knows child culture and has been highly successful in this branch.

ENGINEER PENMAN

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

WE Christians say we have conquered death. But we face our own death with fear and rebellion; and the death of our loved ones plunges us into agonizing depression. We think that all people think this way about death. That is not so. There are people on this earth to whom death is as natural as sleep, and who accept the existence of disembodied spirits as naturally as we accept the existence of our living friends.

Take your atlas. Turn to South America and locate Dutch Guiana. "Suriname" is the official title of Dutch Guiana. The heart of Suriname is jungle. Parts of that jungle white men have never explored. It is a place of steaming darkness and lurking death. Yet there abides in that darkness a strong, intelligent people with an established civilization which is in many points superior to ours. These people are descendants of negro slaves, who fled from the cruelty of the plantations in the years 1772-1777.

John Vandercook has written a book about these negroes. As he writes, the jungle opens before you, and closes upon you, and you become part of its terror and mystery. The sound of the tomtom is in your ears and the horror of darkness squeezes the white heart of you. But there is no such fear on the black skinned dweller in Suriname.

Calmly they go on their way, and no people in all the earth are more perfectly adjusted to their environment, nor more at peace with their own souls. Although the bare struggle for food is intensely difficult, and they are at all times beset by the risks of jungle death, they maintain their spiritual as well as their physical equilibrium.

When a Suriname negro dies his people do not believe that he has departed from them. "He is as definitely alive to the townspeople today as he was to his contemporaries," says Mr. Vandercook. "His descendants talk to him, ask and receive his assistance at every crisis."

Mr. Vandercook explains with strong emphasis that this answering has nothing to do with our idea of spiritual communion. There are no mediums, nor trances, no rappings or "ectoplasmic" exhibitions. No preparation is required for this communion, nor does any terror attach to it. It is the commonplace experience of every man, woman and child in Suriname, and to them appears as simple as conversation with friends.

Think about that. Do not dismiss it with the contemptuous comment that "they're only a bunch of ignorant savages. They are not ignorant savages. They live in a place of dread and should, theoretically, be beset by fear and superstition. Yet, in the face of life's greatest and most painful mystery, they are calm and sustained, while we are utterly at sea. Think about that."

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

SO many plans as we go along, little of sorrow and much of song; joy in a task well done; laughter of children and lilt of birds, kindly handclasps and loving words, thus does the journey run. Glimpses of gardens where poppies bloom, breezes that bring us a faint perfume, lengthening shades that creep, bearing the twilight sense of peace, bringing their promise that cares will cease, soothing the soul for sleep; all of these borne on the day's swift wings, longing and laughter and sacred things, memories sweet as musk; song of the lark with the dawning bright, tender hands that make burdens light, kisses at star-strewn dusk. Something of sorrow and much of song, dreaming and love to the years belong, shadows sometimes and strife; yet in the picture such beauty lies, ever men watch it with eager eyes, only a glimpse of life.

Societies for Star Study

By Garrett P. Serviss.

I AM informed of the success of the Syracuse Astronomical Society in New York's splendid namesake of the glorious old city of Archimedes. The formation of such societies or associations I have long advocated in these articles as the best way to meet the constantly increasing popular interest in astronomy, and to compensate for the general failure of schools to give instruction, or to awaken interest, in that subject.

Astronomy satisfies the mind, the imagination, the innate aspiration of every intelligent person toward something higher and broader than the ordinary things of life, as no other science is capable of doing.

An astronomical society is a moral tonic, such as a church is, or ought to be. Years ago, when I was giving illustrated lectures, mostly of an astronomical character, month after month, in Carnegie Hall, New York, two sisters, who were well known to the public by their work, used to be in the audience almost every night, and one of them said to me: "You see us here so often because this is our church."

And in truth can God be more highly honored than by admiration of the universe—pace those who insist that there is no God, and that the universe is only the product of self-originated action. Well, if that be so, then, in astronomy we admire that on its grandest scale!

This Syracuse society, by the list of its activities, offers a model for the formation of others—at least one in every large town or city. For instance, this season Mr. Karp will give a series of lectures, which not only members of the society but others as well may attend, on the constellations, the solar system, stellar evoution, etc.

These meetings are to be held in a hall of Syracuse University. Mr. Chamberlain will give a lecture on the moon. On evenings when the weather permits, opportunity will be given to all who desire to view the heavens through the Caithorp telescope.

How easily and simply all this is arranged! Have a president, a secretary, a treasurer—and a telescope. That is enough to begin with. Even the telescope is not an essential, at the start. The really essential things are: First, someone who knows something about the stars and planets, and who has enthusiasm, for a leader, and second, an awakened public curiosity about the universe around us.

The last already exists to a large degree everywhere. Astronomy of late has become as powerful in its appeal to intellectual humanity as geographical exploration was in the times following Columbus. But already the earth has been mostly overrun; that the boundless heavens can never be.

While for popular telescopic observation the Winter may not be quite so favorable as the Summer in our climate, yet never are the constelations so brilliant as in Winter, and they call for no telescope. In Winter, too, indoor discussion is most enjoyable. Start your society, then, this Winter with meetings for organization and lectures and conferences on the endless fascinating topics that astronomy offers.
